INDIAN COMMISSIONER'S REPORT.

Commissioner Price Presents his Annual Synopsis of the Condition of Indian Affairs.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The following is a synopsis of the annual report of Indian Commissioner Price: A decided advance has been made in the march of improvements among Indian tribes, particularly in the matter of industrial school education. Some tribes have been persuaded to send children to school that heretofore resisted all efforts to induce them to do so. One question may be considered settled beyond controversy, and that is, an Indian must be taught to work for his own support and to speak the English language or give place to a people who do. Among the things needed to secure success and efficiency in solving the Indian problem are, first, appropriation to survey out boundaries of Indian reservations, so both Indians and white men may know where they have rights and where they have none; 2d, a law for punishment of persons who furnish arms or ammunition to Indians, as no such law now exists; 3d, more liberal appropriations for Indian police; 4th, an appropriation sufficient to defray the expense of detecting and prosecuting persons who furnish intoxicating liquors to Indians. No ardent spirits should be introduced into an Indian country under any pretense whatever, nor their sale be permitted within twenty miles of an Indian reservation. The practice of approving contracts to collect from the government money due Indians is one that ought not to exist. It is the duty of the government to see that the wards of the nation receive what is justly due them free of cost, and it is equally the duty of the government to see that no unjust claim is paid.

INDIANS SHOULD BE HELD RESPONSIBLE.

Congress should confer both civil and criminal jurisdiction on the several states and territories over all Indian reservations within their respective limits, and make the person and property of an Indian amenable to the laws of the state or territory in which he may reside, except in cases where such property is expressly excepted by treaty or act of congress, and give him all rights in the courts secured by other persons. Allotments in severalty to the number of 148 have been made to Indians during the year, with the best results, and the commissioner will adhere to the policy of allotting lands where the same can be legally done and the condition of the Indians is such as to warrant it. The attention of congress is again invited to the necessity of legislation to enable Indians to make entries under the homestead law with no cost to them. It is necessary that lands within certain reservations be sub-divided, and it is important in some cases that this be done at once. Yet there is not a dollar available for this special purpose. An amendment to the law in reference to intruders, so as to punish by imprisonment as well as by fine, is absolutely necessary. The commissioner gives a detailed account of Payne's operations and asks that special attention of congress be called to these aggressive movements on Indian territory lands and illustrating the urgent necessity for speedy, effective legislation in regard to trespassers. Recommendations for legislation for protection of timber of Indian lands are renewed. During the year there was paid to Indians, in cash and annuities and otherwise, $743,600. Less than $200,000 of this amount was for payment of annuities proper, many of which will expire in the near future by limitation in various treaties.

A GRATIFYING INCREASE.

The increase in the accommodations for Indian pupils which the school appropriation for the last fiscal year made possible, has been followed by a corresponding increase in attendance of pupils. Exclusive of five civilized tribes, the number enrolled at boarding schools during the year just closed is 5340, an increase of 654 over last year. The attendance on day schools has been 5014, an increase of 49 over the preceding year. Of the 5143 boarding pupils, 4396 attended schools on the reservations or in their immediate vicinity. Boarding and day schools on reservations have made a creditable record. Eight new boarding schools have been opened, making the whole number now in operation, exclusive of training schools, seventy-seven. An interesting event in the year has been the educational [illegible] in the Ute tribe. The southern Utes allowed twenty-seven youths to be taken to the Albuquerque boarding school, although not one of the tribe had ever before attended any school of any description. Organization of a system of day schools is meeting with favor among experienced agents who have large agencies, and desire to place all their Indians as speedily as possible under a sort of educational influence. The good results attendant upon maintenance of the training schools at Carlisle, Hampton and Forest Grove are very manifest, and congress is urged to increase the appropriations for these schools. The best hope for the Indian lies in bringing him into the closest possible relations with the various religious societies, whose sole business consists in working for the elevation of humanity, and who, from long experience, are presumably best informed as to the methods and men and means to be employed in such work. The commissioner again calls attention to the need of a school for Indians in Alaska.

The Episcopal Convention Adjourns.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26.—At the Protestant Episcopal convention to-day a resolution was adopted by the convention which earnestly recommended that a portion of the alms and contributions during the administration of the holy communion be appropriated to the support of disabled clergymen and to the widows and orphans of deceased clergymen. Rev. Mr. Rucker of Texas offered a resolution that the house will not entertain any motion to alter or amend any portion of the common prayer not referred to them by the joint committee. The house resumed consideration of resolution No. 12 of the joint committee on prayer books, relating to the holy communion and rubric. Section C was amended so as to provide for the omission of the decalogue at one of the celebrations of holy communion, when the holy communion had been celebrated more than once in the same day. The section as amended was adopted. Rapid progress was made in adoption of the report. Rev. Dr. Goodwin of Pennsylvania offered as an amendment to the sections the following: "The holy communion shall not be celebrated in any congregation unless there are some persons present ready and who expect to participate with the priests."

Rev. Dr. Huntington suggested the following substitute, which was accepted by Dr. Goodman: "There shall be no celebration of the Lord's supper unless there be a convenient number to communicate with the priest, according to his discretion, and even though there be not above twenty persons in the parish of discretion to receive communion, yet there shall be no communion unless three, or two at least, commune with the president." The substitute was adopted, and also the section as amended. The house of bishops appointed a committee to prepare forms for ecclesiastical documents. The house elected the bishop of Connecticut permanent chairman. The bishops of Pennsylvania and Iowa were appointed to certify changes of canons.

The house of bishops and house of deputies met at the board of missions and concluded their work of reading and approving the minutes, Bishop Lee of Delaware presiding. A letter was read by Bishop Huntington, the benediction pronounced by Bishop Lee and the convention adjourned sine die.

AGENCY AFFAIRS REVIEWED.

Affairs of different agencies are reviewed at great length. With reference to the Mission Indians of California, the commissioner says he fully agrees with the findings of the inspector sent out to examine their condition, and will incorporate them in a bill to be presented to congress. Concerning the Turtle Mountain Indians of Dakota, he recommends that two townships of the present reservation be retained as a permanent reservation for those who do not desire to make homesteads. Indian tribes of Indian territory having failed to adopt freedmen into their tribes, as contemplated by the appropriation act of 1882, it is recommended that legislation be asked authorizing their settlement in Oklahoma district, under some well defined jurisdiction, and form a government, with power to call upon the secretary of interior to determine what freedmen should be allowed to settle thereon, or else that such stringent laws be passed as will compel respective tribes to adopt freedmen, as provided in their treaties. It is also recommended that congress authorize the appointment of and provide for the payment of the expenses of a committee whose duty it shall be to visit these nations, consider all points of difference between Indians and alleged intruders or noncitizens, and after determining upon rules of procedure for a final adjustment of the question, attend courts of said nations and submit said rules for consideration and action, which, when attested and approved by the department, shall be final and conclusive. The early attention of congress is invited to the deplorable condition of Indians in Montana that steps toward assisting them may be taken as soon as possible. The report concludes with the recital of an agreement signed in this city in July last between Chief Moses and the secretary of the interior, which will, the commissioner says, if ratified by congress, restore to the public domain 2,843,360 acres of land in Washington territory upon terms favorable to the government and for the best interests of the Indians.

Ingenious Young Women.

Troy Telegram.

Monday there was a big excursion from the collar city to Saratoga. Hundreds of Troy's pretty young ladies went to Saratoga.

The sky threatened rain.

The young ladies wore bustles.

Perhaps there was no connection between the threatening sky and the bustles—and perhaps there was.

Shortly after the excursionists reached Saratoga the rain began to pour. Many of the young ladies with their escorts were seated in the parlor of a hotel when the rain began to fall. The prospect was dismal as viewed from the hotel windows. Within it seemed sad, too. The airy and tasty creations of the excursionists must be spoiled by a venture on the street. Umbrellas were few and far between and there seemed an entire dearth of outside coverings.

But witness the ingenuity of the young ladies of the day.

As if by preconcerted action the young ladies arose one after the other and left the parlor.

In a few minutes they returned.

All wore gossamer cloaks!

But the bustles were gone.

TERRIBLE RAVAGES OF YELLOW FEVER AT MAZATLAN.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 26.—J. A. Robertson, formerly of this city, has just returned from Mexico, and fully confirms all that has been said concerning the ravages of yellow fever at Mazatlan. He went there in August last to buy a sugar plantation, and was attacked with fever, but recovered. "A few days before I left," he says, "I went to the cemetery, where I learned from the gatekeeper that during the two months of fever there has been passed in from 3500 to 5000 dead. He was not sure as to the exact number, as some days they came so thick that it was impossible to keep the tally. It is said that in one week the deaths numbered fully 900. The American colony was severely attacked. Among those known to have died were a gentleman from Dixon, California; A. F. Rogers, Horace Adams, P. Holmes, George Huber and John McEwan of San Francisco; Robert Porter of Pennsylvania, Marcus Monroe of Victoria, B. C., and William Cornelius of Virginia City. These are only the names," added Mr. Robertson, "of those I can think of at present, but there were many others." He says most positively that the danger is not over yet at Mazatlan, that it is criminal to say that it is. This is daily contradictory of the statement that port authorities at Mazatlan were willing to give the steamer Granada a clean bill of health.

SOUTH AMERICA.

A MISSION FROM PERU.

AN ATROCIOUS MURDER.

WAUSEON, O., Oct. 26.—An atrocious murder was committed five miles from here Tuesday night. A farmer named George Williams drove into Wauseon that afternoon with a load of clover seed, for which he received quite a large sum. After returning home nothing was seen of him or his family by the neighbors for two days, and last evening search was instituted. In a barn was found the corpse of Williams, the head almost severed from his body. His wife was found in the house with her head split open and brains oozing out, while a six-weeks-old infant was found on the bed nearly starved. Money and valuables known to have been in possession of the family were missing. Last night the marshal at Wauseon arrested a man named Johnson, who had in his possession a watch known to belong to Williams, and Johnson was held to answer to the charge of murder.

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC AND SAN FRANCISCO.

Speculations in that City as to the Effect of the Northern Line upon its Trade.

San Francisco Alta.

Prior to the opening of the Northern Pacific railroad the ideas entertained respecting the effect that the opposition of the line would have on San Francisco's Oregon trade were extremely varied. Some men went so far as to say that it would take from San Francisco all of her Oregon trade, and depicted in somber colors a coming hard times to business circles here. These gentlemen are of the class who are eternally bepraising the push and enterprise of Chicago merchants, and grumbling over what they allege to be the lack of vim on the part of San Francisco business men. On the other hand there were a few men who boldly asserted that the Northern Pacific would be of great benefit to San Francisco, and would only affect its trade advantageously. The road has been open for business some weeks; it is no longer an experiment, but an established fact, and in order to ascertain what had been its effect on San Francisco trade so far, an Alta representative yesterday sought information from among some of the leading merchants and business men in this city.

HORACE DAVIS,

President of the chamber of commerce, ex-congressman from the First district, and proprietor of one of the largest flouring mills on the coast, said that while he did not consider the policy of the Northern Pacific railroad managers was shaped to favor San Francisco in any way, yet circumstances were such that the road could not injure the trade of this city in any degree worth mentioning. As a fact, strange as it may seem, the trade with Oregon was of all business done here least dependent on transcontinental railroads. Fully 65 per cent. of our shipments to Oregon were of local product or manufacture, and could not be obtained from any other source. That trade we must keep. Of the remaining 35 per cent., at least 15 per cent. was goods of foreign manufacture which came here by ship, leaving only 20 per cent. of eastern goods which came by rail. Of this amount, perhaps half was small orders to sort up stock, wanted in a hurry, and which would naturally be still purchased in San Francisco. This left 10 per cent. of trade for which Chicago and other eastern cities could compete, or Oregon houses could do on wholesale account. San Francisco houses had men on the road and would at least get a share of that. But suppose, by the special favoritism of the Northern Pacific, San Francisco houses lost that trade, there would still be a compensation in the shape of an extra demand in Oregon for California products consequent upon the increase of settlement up north induced by the new railroad. All the talk about Portland losing its trade, and the building up of a new city on Puget sound, Mr. Davis considered without foundation. Portland was a big city, for the same reason as any other city, because it had behind it a well settled farming country. Puget sound had not this advantage. It was backed by a lumber and coal district and those trades employed but few men and never built up big cities. It would be many years before people farmed land that needed clearing, so long as there was level valley land clear of timber and well watered, to be obtained.

JACOB S. TABER,

President of the board and head of the firm of Taber, Harker & Co., wholesale grocers, said that it was rather too soon yet to estimate with any degree of certainty the effect of the Northern Pacific on San Francisco trade. It might have some slight disturbing effect on business; it might, perhaps, alter a trifle the regular channels of trade, but he did not believe that it would injure San Francisco in the least. In his line of business the amount of eastern goods sold in the Oregon trade was about 20 per cent., as against 80 per cent. of California and foreign goods, which no railroad competition could interfere with. The opening of the Northern Pacific railroad had largely increased the Oregon business; had opened up fresh demands for local goods, and as that country became settled, so would the local trade increase. Speaking for his own house, he could say that trade was never better nor collections easier.

THE HARDWARE TRADE.

A member of the firm of Holbrook, Merrill & Stetson, hardware importers, said that he only anticipated increased trade from the opening of the Northern Pacific railroad, though in some lines of goods the house handled it might have the effect of placing more reliance on local manufactures. While people talked as if eastern competition was a horrible bugbear, he felt that California competition with the east was something the people nearer the Atlantic seaboard had cause to dread. This coast could and would soon be manufacturing hundreds of articles now imported. Day by day the local manufactures increased, and he had yet to see one started that had not been a success. The ships that came here for wheat brought coal as ballast at a nominal figure, also pig iron; yet iron could be made in this state to compete with the imported article. He did not think that the policy of the Northern Pacific railroad was to build up San Francisco, but circumstances were stronger than men, and the trade and other advantages that this place has were her safeguard.

WILLIAM T. COLEMAN,

Whose house handles by far the largest portion of the Northern Pacific salmon crop, and has the best possible information on this subject, laughed at the idea of the Northern Pacific railroad or any other railroad injuring San Francisco. Said he: "Portland has one railroad within her reach; San Francisco has four roads. We have both got the ocean, but California has the best share of that, and San Francisco has the only first-class harbor easy of access on the whole Pacific coast. The eastern goods that Oregon may get direct instead of San Francisco, as heretofore, are but a fraction of our Oregon trade, and then, too, you must remember that many of our large firms have branches there. San Francisco houses are just as much alive as those of Chicago or any other place, and more so, and if San Francisco be true to herself no power on earth can prevent her from not only dominating in the trade of the coast, as heretofore, but from pushing her lines of trade still further. I may ship some goods by the Northern Pacific railroad, if it suits me, but the profit will still be in San Francisco houses. Should the Northern Pacific railroad ever attempt to show such favors to Portland as would hurt San Francisco merchants, I feel confident that the Central Pacific and Southern Pacific lines would stand by us. Their interests are ours in this matter. While the Northern Pacific railroad may try to cheat San Francisco out of her trade, the Central Pacific will not permit such a thing to be done. Our merchants need have no fear on that score."

NOTE AND COMMENT.

Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes recently said to a friend: "I have written much that I would willingly let die. The public have treated me beyond my deserts. It would be better if I should be found out in my lifetime."

John Quincy Adams received a salary from the United States government for sixty-nine years. At the close of his presidential term he had had fifty-two years of office holding, and his salary had aggregated $2[illegible],000; still he had seventeen years of congressional life after this, and died at the capitol at a congressional session.

The Cincinnati Commercial Gazette says: "It will be sometime before we get again as good fighting ground as that afforded by the Scott law, but it will be a longer time before the question of prohibition comes before the people of Ohio. The next time a brace of amendments are before the people at a general election, they will have to be submitted by the democracy."

General J. B. Steedman, who died at Toledo a few days since, deservedly won from his old comrades in the army the affectionate sobriquet, "Old Steady." Though now dead he will long continue in the honorable memory of patriotic Americans, for the famous words uttered by him at Chickamauga. Seizing the flag from a color bearer close at hand, he shouted to his column, as they wavered and fell back in the face of the storm of lead, "Go back, boys, go back, but the flag can't go with you." "The boys" didn't go back any further; and Steedman knew them well enough to know that they would not.

In Greenville, Tennessee, the late President Johnson lived as tailor, alderman, legislator and president; and there he is buried. The shop in which he labored as tailor now stands in the eastern part of the town. Just over the entrance of the shop, which is a small frame building and in which a colored family is now living, is a pine board, upon which is written in letters now almost erased by rain and storm, the following: "A. Johnson, Tailor." A little out of the western boarder of the town stands the monument of marble which marks the resting place of "Andrew Johnson, President of the United States."

Some Facts for Labor.

Springfield Republican.

The workingman who buys his bread in Springfield or Boston pays a larger share of its price to the baker who carries it to his door than to the railroad which brought the wheat from Dakota. Edward Atkinson shows that very clearly in his testimony before Senators Blair and Pugh at Boston this week. Take, for instance, 100 barrels of flour: The wheat—450 bushels—costs at Glyndon, Dakota, 80 cents a bushel—$360—which goes to the farmer. Suppose it stops at Minneapolis to be ground into flour, the freight from Glyndon to Boston will be $197 50; the barrels will cost $45, grinding $50, commission and cartage at the flouring mills—$30—making the cost of the flour in Boston $682 50. The baker's fuel, yeast, etc., will cost $210 and his labor $200. Each barrel yields from 280 to 300 pounds of bread; that is, the cost of from 28000 to 30000 pounds of bread in the shop ready for sale $1092 50, or about 3½ cents a pound. The same bread is sold to the consumer or put in carts and carried to him for from 6 to 7 cents per pound in the shops where the working classes buy, and from 7 to 8½ cents in the better shops. It costs, in other words, from $5 to $7 to distribute the bread made from one barrel of flour. Thus of the $1880 which the consumer pays for the bread, he pays 40 per cent. to the retailer and distributor, 23 per cent. to the baker, 7 per cent. to the merchant, miller and cooper, 11 per cent. to the railroads and 20 per cent. to the farmer. Mr. Atkinson thinks this throws light on the reasonableness of the anti-monopoly talk.

Wanted a Grate Bating.

Chambers' Journal.

An Irish laborer who was in the employment of an English gentleman residing in Ireland, was on one occasion proceeding to a fair, held annually at a neighboring village, when his master endeavored to dissuade him from his design. "You always," said he, "come back with a broken head; now stay at home to-day, Darby, and I'll give you five shillings." "I'm for ever and all obliged to your honor," was the reply; "but does it stand to reason," he added, at the same time flourishing his shillelah over his head, "does it stand to reason that I'd take five shillings, or even five-and-twenty, for the grate bating I'll get to-day?" Darby could not forego such an excellent chance of getting [illegible].

"Ten years ago the name of Lydia E. Pinkham was scarcely known outside of her native state. To-day it is a household word all over the continent, and many who read the secular and religious journals have become familiar with the face that shines on them with a modest confidence, in which we see the truth that "Nothing ill can dwell in such a temple."

Shipwreck Off Cape Horn.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 25.—Captain Raymond of the British bark Emile L. Boyd, which arrived last night, 131 days from London, reports that during a lull in a heavy storm off Cape Horn he saw a bark standing off about a quarter of a mile distant from his own vessel. The next instant his vessel was struck by a squall, which lasted for about fifteen minutes. When the sea was again quiet the crew gazed anxiously for the bark, but no sign of her was visible. The captain, fearful of a collision, went to the masthead and scanned the horizon in vain. The conclusion was forced upon him that the unknown vessel must have gone down with all on board. He described her as being of North American build.

Spreckels and the Sugar Crop.

The statement is made by a gentleman recently from the Sandwich Islands that Claus Spreckels, proprietor of the California sugar refinery, has contracted to purchase the entire sugar crop of the islands, with the condition that it be shipped only in his vessels. This precludes vessels carrying general merchandise cargoes to the island from getting a return cargo to this port.

A Profitable Chinese Industry.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 26.—Regarding the unusual number of Chinese "traders" that have been arriving, and about which so much has been said in the newspapers, custom house officers state that the Chinese superintendent of customs at Canton is doing a good business furnishing "traders" certificates at from $2 50 to $5 each.

Aid Asked for the Northern Pacific.

The Merchants and Farmers' association for the prevention of railroad extension, have issued a circular in opposition to the joint circular issued by railroad companies recently, regarding the renewal of special contracts. The merchants and farmers' circular is an appeal to merchants throughout the state to give their patronage to the Northern Pacific road as a competing line.

The Union Pacific railroad has appointed George J. Cowan, who has been connected with the company in this city, assistant general western passenger agent for Oregon, Washington and British Columbia, with headquarters at Portland. The appointment goes into effect November 1.

San Francisco Notes.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 26.—Inspectors Skelton and Hanscom started for Boston this afternoon with forger Dewey, alias Halpart.

Respecting the seizure reported yesterday of 4000 Chinese unstamped letters which were brought over on the steamer Tokio, further investigation to-day by the postal authorities goes to show the number of letters sent from here to China through the mails have been largely on the decrease. The assumption is that a similar system of fraud is practiced by the Chinese with letters on the outgoing steamers as on the incoming. It is estimated the government loses about $250 on every Chinese mail from this port.

The Bulletin this evening publishes a tabulated statement showing the increase in the number of Chinese arriving provided with Chinese government "traders'" certificates, entitling them to land in the United States. The steamer of June 17 last brought the first lot. There were only three on that steamer. The next brought thirty-nine, and so on, increasing up to 111 on the last.

Mormons Want Governor Murray Removed.

SALT LAKE, Oct. 26.—The Salt Lake Herald, Mormon church paper, in a bitter article on Governor Murray, calls for his removal. As Murray is the best governor Utah ever had, the Gentiles and law abiding people will stand by him to a man. His only offense is that he wants the laws enforced in Utah as in any other portion of the United States.

A Money King's Gutter Language.

From W. H. Vanderbilt's sketch of W. K., in the Tribune, organ of the best people.

"I thought he was not one of the breed if he had allowed himself to be cornered by those 'bears' in Wall street, but he can buy 'em all up—the men who started the lies about his failure. He never 'squeals' as they do either, and he has never given up one of the men who have been associated with him in some of his operations. No, cut him loose among the 'bears,' and he will take care of himself. Why, his grandfather left him $2,000,000, and that he has now in his houses. See what he has now, and his grandfather has been dead only about six years.

"Of course he has some things which would bring him a loss if he was obliged to realize to-day, but he is not obliged to sell and the 'bears' cannot force him to do so. My father used to say to me, 'Billy, the men who take their 1 per cent. interest will have all the money in time.' And I remember that a short time before his death, when we were issuing some bonds, he objected to making them twenty year bonds because the time would run around too quickly.

"These stories about William K. are an outrage—a damnable outrage. The 'bears' must be hard run when they have to start such lies to help themselves. Suppose he had been in business? Why, the circulation of such rumors might have hurt his credit so much that he and the firm he was with would have been ruined. The rumors, perhaps, do no harm in this case, because my son cares nothing about them, but they are an outrage just the same. It seems as if, when money becomes the question, men lost all gentlemanly instincts and stooped to anything, no matter how mean and dirty it was."

"Yes, the 'bears' must be terribly hard run when they resort to such things. The 'bears'—I can see them now standing around down there at the Windsor. It's funny; but there is something in the very appearance of the 'bears' which makes them look like sneak-thieves. I can tell them just by their manner and looks. You wouldn't trust your pocket-book with one of them; I wouldn't, at any rate, and ever expect to see it back again. Some of them pretend to have a little money, but as a class they are worth almost nothing. The fact is, it is cheap to be a 'bear,' and they haven't enough money to be anything else."

Postal Rates Ninety Years Ago.

Elmira Advertiser.

Now that the two-cent postage law has gone into effect, the following provisions of the first law of congress on the subject will be read with interest:

February 20, 1792, was the date of the first act fixing rates of postage on domestic letters and established the following rates, to take effect, June 1, 1792:

For every single letter over 30 miles and not exceeding 60 miles, 8 cents.

For every single letter over 60 miles and not exceeding 100 miles, 10 cents.

For every single letter over 100 miles and not exceeding 150 miles, 12½ cents.

For every single letter over 150 miles and not exceeding 200 miles, 15 cents.

For every single letter over 200 miles and not exceeding 250 miles, 17 cents.

For every single letter over 250 miles and not exceeding 350 miles, 20 cents.

For every single letter over 350 miles and not exceeding 450 miles, 22 cents.

For every single letter over 450 miles, 25 cents.

For every double letter, double the said rates.

For every triple letter, triple the said rates.

For every packet weighing one ounce avoirdupois, to pay at the rate of four single letters, for each ounce, and in that proportion for any greater weight.

Rights in Georgia.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—Senator Brown, as president of the state board of Georgia and head of the new Georgia railroad syndicate, announces that his policy, under the conditions presented by the late civil rights decision, will be more than ever to see that the colored man shall have his full rights upon the trains. He says the colored people will not be permitted to go into the cars intended for white ladies, nor to invade those of the white people who do not desire their society, but that comfortable cars will be arranged on the Western and Atlantic for both races, where they can travel comfortably and safely. The conductors on his trains, under his orders, will no more permit white people to intrude upon the colored people than they will permit the colored to intrude on the white people. His orders will be stringent to the conductors to see that colored people paying the same price as the whites shall have as comfortable accommodations, but they must take it in different cars.

The Farmers and the Tariff.

Louisville Courier-Journal: The farmers are beginning to understand something of the nature of the tariff, and they are becoming more restless under its burdens. Perhaps, after awhile, even the laboring man will learn that the whole scheme rests on false pretenses; that the tariff nowhere protects the laborer; that labor, pauper labor, is on the free list; that the subsidies are for the capitalist, for the monopolist, and not for the man who works either in the field or the factory.

Sad Humorists.

New York Tribune.

We hope the newspaper humorists won't fly at us when we say that Peck's Bad Boy represents some of the tendencies that are found in too much of the humorous writing nowadays. We recall nothing else so strangely vulgar as this, unless it is Mr. "Mark Twain's" own delicately humorous account of the misunderstanding occasioned by a box containing a Limburger cheese being placed in the same car with a corpse on its way to the grave.

Quarrels to be Fixed Up.

Philadelphia Press.

The ambitious and peace-loving gentlemen who propose to effect a reconciliation between Blaine and Conkling, when they finish that little job, might take hold and fix up that little difference between Robert Toombs of Georgia and the federal government.

The original draft of the civil rights act, which has just been declared unconstitutional, was made by the late Senator Charles Sumner, of Massachusetts. Senator Matt Carpenter, of Wisconsin, attacked the bill with great vehemence, and declared that the supreme court would decide it unconstitutional as soon as it should reach that tribunal; and the recent decision proves that Carpenter was the better lawyer of the two.

ANAMOSA, IOWA.—Dr. J. G. McGuire says: "I know Brown's Iron Bitters is a good tonic and gives general satisfaction."

WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

An Open Letter to Mr. Landrum and Mr. Kincaid, Members of the Legislative Assembly.

SIRS: Your recent efforts at Olympia, in attempting to defeat the bill granting to the women of this territory the right of suffrage, have secured for you a cheap and unfortunate notoriety. You have succeeded in getting your names printed in a newspaper, and may yet have the satisfaction of seeing them in the Police Gazette, together with your photographs and your maiden speeches. This is the cheap part of your notoriety. The unfortunate part consists in your falling so flat and being so unmercifully "[illegible] in your own vomit."

You spent much time, I am told, in preparation and in dressing yourselves up in lion skins, for the purpose of creating terror and dismay among the advocates of equal rights. But, unfortunately, the long ears protruded, and created nothing but ridicule and contempt. You may have heard of what Bobby Burns said of "the best laid schemes of mice and men." Doubtless your preparations were worthy of a better cause, and it is safe to say that your "wives and mothers" (if you have any) will learn of your inglorious defeat with no surprise and no regret.

Under such embarrassing circumstances you may not be in a proper "frame of mind" to be interviewed or to answer questions. I dislike to distress you, or offend others, by saying that your speeches on the occasion referred to, are "public property." Very few will claim them as property of any kind. But by whatever name your utterances may be called, you must not be offended if you are called upon to vindicate them.

Permit me, therefore, to ask, who constituted you the mouthpiece of the women of this territory? Who authorized you to say, "women do not want to vote?" Have not petitions, largely signed by women, been presented to the legislative assembly now in session, asking that the right of suffrage may be allowed to women? And who sent you to the capitol of this territory to proclaim that equal rights will not make "wives and mothers better but worse?" Did the "wives and mothers" in the counties from which you come send you here for such purpose? Did they have any voice in sending you there for any purpose, or at all?

It was not you, but Benjamin Franklin who said before you were born, "They are slaves who have no part in making the laws by which they are governed." It was another, not you, who said, "Legal and political disabilities are the birthright of slaves."

Besides, sirs, what right have you, or any set of men, to say the women shall not be allowed to vote or hold office?

Who gave you, or those of your gender and mine, the exclusive right to make all laws, do all the voting, hold all the offices, and receive all the emoluments of office?

Please examine the origin and foundation of your own rights before you deny the same to your "wives and mothers."

Do you claim that any government or law is just which denies to one class of citizens rights and privileges enjoyed by another class?

But you tell us that woman suffrage is "premature."

Do you really think so? It is now more than 100 years since your forefathers and mothers pledged their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor to establish the principles of self-government, one of which was: "There shall be no taxation without representation."

How long, in your opinion, must "wives and mothers" be excluded from the enjoyment of that principle, and others equally just and valuable? Must they forever be doorkeepers at the temple of liberty and never be permitted to enter its portals?

What say you, savans and law-makers? Do you think the right of suffrage was prematurely achieved and conferred upon you? But, perhaps you care nothing for principles or the demands of justice, unless it be the principle that "might makes right" and that power can tyrannize with impunity. Judging from the assertions made and the sentiments expressed by you, I cannot hesitate to declare that such is the case.

You have doubtless heard it said that a "little brief authority," like a little learning, is a dangerous thing, and often turns small minds topsy-turvy. If such be your ailment it may palliate but cannot excuse arrogance.

But let me put one or two broader questions for your consideration:

Do you deny that the self-evident truths contained in the Declaration of Independence are as applicable to woman as they are to man?

Do you deny that women in the pursuit of happiness are entitled to the same rights, privileges and opportunities that men are?

Do you deny that "the times which tried men's souls" in the struggle for independence were the times which tried the souls of women also?

Do you deny that, when liberty finally unfolded her white wings and came to us bringing blessings and offerings, it was for all?

Have you forgotten the fundamental truth—that governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed? Do you not know that "all persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the state wherein they reside?" You cannot plead ignorance as an excuse for your arrogance and dereliction of duty—not to say your contempt for woman's petitions.

You next worried yourselves, and, I am told, affected great concern about the "domestic relations," and the inroads which woman suffrage would make upon them.

This is only the clap-trap which we have so often heard from petty politicians and tricksters, and it has become nauseating.

Could you find nothing but this hackneyed twaddle with which to piece out your feeble speeches?

The author of "Story, on Contracts," (which you have never read), makes use of this language: "The law defining the powers and rights of married women is by no means abreast of the spirit of the age. This law tends to make every family a barony, or a monarchy, or a despotism, of which the husband is the baron, king or despot, and the wife the dependent, serf or slave. That this is not always the fact is not due to the law. The progress of civilization has changed the family from a barony to a republic; but the law has not kept pace with the advance of ideas, manners and customs. * * * The position of woman throughout history serves as a criterion of the freedom of a people, or an age. When man shall despise that right which is founded only on might, woman will be free, and stand on an equal level with him—a peer, and not a dependent." (Vol. I., page 148, "Story, on Contracts.")

This language of Story was in print several years ago and I would commend it to your perusal, if I thought you would not consider it "premature."

Perhaps the truth is that you yourselves are a little "premature." You are certainly prematurely in the halls of legislation, and you must pardon me for saying, you cannot be premature in ceasing to depict the dangers to which the virtue of "wives and mothers" will be exposed in going to the polls. Woman's jewels are in her own custody and keeping and fortunately she has not constituted you the custodians of them.

I am also told that you made a feeble attempt to ridicule the women who are demanding equal rights, by calling them "strong-minded" women, etc. This I hope, for your sakes, cannot be true. For who but a hoodlum would ridicule or malign the mental capabilities of such women as are advocating equal rights in this and other countries? Not to mention other names, who but an idiot would sneer at such a woman as Anna E. Dickinson, whose genius and power, in a time of public danger, electrified the heart of the nation and kindled fires of patriotism, which will never cease to burn? Have you no "veneration" for such and other like women, whose names might be mentioned? How would your own mental endowments compare with those of the women you are said to have ridiculed?

Having neither time nor inclination to interview you longer at present, let me say to you, and to such as you, who are in power: Think not that you are beyond the reach of the puny hand of woman. Truth, and justice, and right, though crushed to earth for a time, will rise again. Woman's cause will yet be triumphant.

On the morning after the crucifixion, when the devout women at Jerusalem were in sadness and gloom, a voice, which men could not hear, told them to go into Galilee, where they should again see the Savior face to face. With weary steps, thither they went, and were not disappointed.

So with the noble and patriotic women of the nineteenth century. A voice, which you and such as you cannot hear, has said to them: "Your country calls you to the polls. The welfare of republican institutions, the welfare of your homes, your own welfare, and the welfare of your children and your children's children, call you there." Thither they are going, despite principalities or powers. With weary feet they will reach the promised land, where there is liberty for all, government by all and for all.

Should any answers be given by you to the foregoing interrogatories, I shall deem it a privilege and shall take occasion to interview you again.

B. F. DENNISON.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 24, 1883.

Home of "Ned Buntline," of "Blood and Thunder" Novel Notoriety.

Buffalo Courier.

The wildwood home of Colonel E. Z. C. Judson, better known as "Ned Buntline" in the Adirondacks is one of the attractions of that famous region. The house, if it may be dignified by that name, is constructed of logs in the most primitive style and contains but two rooms. It stands near Eagle lake at the foot of Blue mountain. As far back as 1856 "Ned Buntline" invaded the wilderness and built his little log cabin in the heart of the woods. At that time he was a slave to intemperance and recognized the fact that his safety lay in flight from the busy haunts of men. He succeeded in clearing a little farm, and when the cabin attained the appearance of a home he presented it with a mistress in the form of a young and handsome wife. The furniture was of the simplest description and the pair were dependent upon their labor for the necessaries of life, but, notwithstanding these drawbacks, they lived happily, and "Ned Buntline" produced volume after volume of thrilling backwoods stories.

The war of the rebellion called the author from his wildwood haunt, and he did not return until long and arduous service had elevated him to the rank of colonel. In the meantime his wife and only child died, and they were laid to rest near the cabin. Four cedar trees mark their lonely graves. "Ned Buntline" is now lecturing on temperance down among the Catskill mountains, and the Adirondack home has passed into the hands of a stranger. It has many visitors each year, who look upon the graves beneath the cedars and try to imagine the sort of life the little family led. The thought of the brave wife who willingly abandoned home and friends to help her husband in his battle against his appetite is invariably a source of sadness.

COUNCIL.

Truax presented petition from citizens of Walla Walla objecting to the Walla Walla city charter. Referred to delegation from Walla Walla.

The committee on hospital for insane reported favorably on the state of the hospital, they having visited the institution. They recommend that a large and suitable building be commenced at once. The report was ordered printed.

The following bills were introduced:

Hale, C. B. 39, preventing bulls from running at large in Thurston county.

Edmiston, C. B. 40, to amend section 2072 of the code of Washington, to prevent the inhaling of opium.

Truax, C. B. 43, to appropriate money for the care and storage of territorial arms.

Smith, C. B. 41, to repeal an act regulating the sale of eggs by weight.

Caton, C. B. 42, to amend section 2675 of the code, relative to salary of territorial auditor.

Kerr, C. B. 44, to provide for building a territorial road in Clallam county.

Caton, C. B. 45, to amend an act establishing an institution for learning in Walla Walla.

All of the above bills were referred.

C. J. R. 10, relative to territorial prisoners and future care of same. Adopted.

C. B. 3, to organize the county of Skagit, provoked an animated discussion, resulting in its [illegible] by the following vote: [illegible] so as to move to reconsideration, but before any further action was taken on the subject the council adjourned.

During the session a communication was received from the governor to the effect that ex-Governor Phelps and ex-Senator Armstrong of Missouri intended visiting the capital to-morrow, and inviting the legislative body to take whatever action they thought best in the premises. A joint resolution afterward was adopted by both houses, for the appointment of a committee on reception of the distinguished visitors, Goodell and Lloyd being appointed on part of the house.

HOUSE.

Mr. Kuhn in the chair. Speaker absent on leave. A number of petitions and remonstrances were presented on the subject of taxing church property and the herd law, etc.

The following bills, memorials, etc., were then introduced:

Ping, H. M. 12, praying for certain rights and privileges for parties named Ousley of Garfield county, relative to the navigation of certain streams and removal of obstructions therefrom.

Kuhn, H. B. 45, to amend section 2893 of the code relative to assessing road poll tax. All of these were referred.

H. M. 11, praying for the reinstatement of F. E. Sparling in the naval academy. Adopted.

H. B. 42, to incorporate the city of Chehalis. Passed, Harlow voting no.

During the afternoon session the speaker (Mr. Ferguson) was in the chair.

H. B. 9 relative to prosecuting attorneys in Second district, was taken up, but so many amendments were offered, and so little was known of the bill, that it was thought advisable to lay it on the table.

H. B. 16, for the protection of fish and game, was passed, after which the house adjourned.

GOVERNOR NEWELL.

In his address delivered in the agricultural and mechanics' fair last evening, the governor referred to the statement which appeared amongst the Associated Press dispatches last evening, to the effect that he was about to resign his office. His excellency stated that there was not one word of truth in the report, but that it was a base fabrication and a malicious untruth. His denial of the truth of the statement was received with applause.

THE ATTEMPT AT MURDER.

Sheriff Billings, besides having made every effort (with no clue to work upon) to apprehend the assailant of Mr. Hewitt, has now offered a reward of $100 for the arrest of the unknown party.

REPORTED ADJOURNMENT.

It is thought likely that the legislature will adjourn for ten days, for the purpose of visiting their constituents and the public buildings, and for the furtherance of legislation.

THE FAIR.

The fair, in spite of the unfair weather, still progresses, and last night addresses were delivered by the governor and Rev. J. R. Thompson. The exhibition is rather small compared with former fairs, but is pretty good, taken altogether. During the rest of the week addresses will be delivered by Hon. N. T. Caton, J. Brining and Judge F. Henry. On Tuesday evening the cornet band played a selection of music in the hall, and each evening musical selections are rendered by excellent performers. The school children, on invitation, visited the fair this afternoon.

Dr. Vernon will deliver a lecture on temperance this evening, and probably Mrs. Duniway may lecture on suffrage during the week.

Rev. T. L. Eliot of Portland, is announced for services in the Unitarian church here on Sunday next.

What Have They Gained?

Pittsburg Commercial Gazette.

That the prohibitionists of Ohio held the balance of power in the late election, admits of no doubt, and that the majority of them hold political affiliation with the republicans is equally true. Had they exhibited the same concern for the success of the republican state ticket and legislative candidates that they manifested in the second amendment, they would have continued the state government in republican hands, and thus have helped the cause they have so deeply at heart. And this could have been done without interfering in any way with their vote on the prohibition amendment. Every vote which they cast for their own candidates helped to pull down the republican aggregate and build up in its place a democratic majority. As a result they have placed in power a party which is not only openly committed against stringent regulation and taxation of the liquor traffic, but so utterly opposed to prohibition that they will not even give the people a chance to vote on it.

It is true the republican party did not directly indorse prohibition, but they did favor such an amendment as would give the legislature power to tax and regulate the sale of liquors. It was in pursuance of this policy that the first amendment was proposed and submitted. They went a step further, however, when they agreed to a test vote on prohibition. It had been largely petitioned for, and on the principle that the people had a right to take the sense of the majority, the second amendment was submitted. It was not sanctioned as a party measure, but provoked as much opposition from the whisky and beer interests as though the party had indorsed it, and elicited no corresponding help from the prohibitionists.

What have the prohibitionists gained by taking the scepter of political power from the hands of republicans and placing it in democratic hands? They have destroyed all hope of getting another opportunity to vote on prohibition until the republican party is restored to power. Another test cannot be had until 1887. In the meantime the Scott law will be repealed and all tax and other restrictions removed. The democratic party stand practically pledged to wipe out the Scott law and restore the era of free whisky, and they will do it. If the prohibitionists expect to reach the goal of inhibition by such political strategy as they resorted to in Ohio, they will be a long time getting there. What they seek will never be vouchsafed to them under democratic authority.

METHOD IN MUNIFICENCE

The St Louis Republican of October 16, under the caption, "A St. Louis Merchant gives an interesting account of the life of James Smith, merchant of that place, whose epitaph is 'Bountiful in his charities, broad in his Christianity, devoted in his friendship." He lived a life of great simplicity, avoiding every kind of ostentation, and gave away one-half of his income and property for charitable and philanthropic uses That which is of most interest in the record is the method which this good and wise man pursued Nearly thirty years ago he made a will in which he gave one-half of his property to his friend and pastor, now Chancellor Eliot of Washington university 'for such charitable, religious or educational purposes as he might select. This phraseology was changed four years before his death, because, on taking legal advice, it was found that a will constituting an indefinite trust such as the above phrase implies might be broken and the testator's wishes set aside Mr Smith then gave by will the one-half of his property without reservation to the same personal friend, preferring not to name specific trusts The article in the Republican above alluded to is an informal rendering of account by Dr Eliot for six years of the sums thus placed in his keeping He justly regarded himself as an agent, to carry out, to his best ability the general purposes of the testator, as expressed in his first will, and as illustrated by his own example during the last twenty years of his life.' The total amount thus devised, including interest, was $190,403, for the expenditure of which in educational foundation and other charities, there are vouchers on hand, and the full evidence in the community. This, added to Mr Smith's gifts and benefactions during his life time, aggregate a sum of $336 000 most of which passed through the hands of this same life-long friend. This method of making a will, always provided that such confidence can be given, furnishes a useful suggestion to benevolently inclined persons. It amounts to what George McDonald calls "indorsing a man" Ordinarily the devising of money to specific objects is difficult to adjust, and without great care there is waste or loss to those who are to receive it. This plan of giving money outright to a trusted friend, who knows the general wishes or tastes of the testator, or to whom these wishes can be communicated by an open memorandum, furnishes an easy method of will-making, and the real intentions are more likely to be carried out than by specific and zealously worded trusts

HARD WOOD

Wagons and carriages of the best class are turned out from Oregon shops, but the materials of which they are made are all imported The wood, the iron, the paint and the leather all come from afar off The wood and the leather at least, we ought to produce here Our best hard wood is the oak and that is not, perhaps fit for all uses, but it might be employed for many parts of even the finest vehicles It has been condemned often on unfair first trial Oak cut at the wrong season carelessly tempered and badly worked, is one quality of wood and oak well selected, seasoned slowly and with intelligence and care, and well worked is quite another quality. We believe that if Oregon oak were handled with the same care given to the eastern hard woods it would be found firm and durable for nearly all the uses of carriage makers, and it would be worth while to try the experiment at least If however, it should be found that Oregon oak will not answer the need for hard wood, we should go about growing something that will Singularly, while all the natural conditions for the growth of hard wood are here, the trees are not here Planted they grow with hardy thrift, and in the fullest excellence of fibre and size A tree which will mature in fifteen years may be sold for twenty dollars, and during the years of its growth it is a thing of beauty, it needs no nursing, and it takes up no room If farmers generally would plant rows of hard wood trees about their places, after a few years we should not have to import a stick of hickory, and the profit to the country would be very great Fifteen years is a long time to wait for a crop to mature, but the interest on the original investment of a few cents and a little labor, would be great. Every father tries to lay by a store for his growing boy, and what investment could be surer, or what could breed faster than a grove of growing hard wood trees?

A LOCAL ENTERPRISE.

The Washington county Independent reports that a scheme is on foot to establish a fruit and vegetable cannery at Hillsboro. Portland capitalists are back of the enterprise, though it is desired and expected that stock will be taken in Washington county by people to whom the establishment must look for its working product. The Independent says that while Washington county has every natural condition for the production of fine fruits and vegetables in great quantities, the close attention given to wheat growing, with the lack of a ready home market, has prevented large production of that class. It points out to farmers the profits to be gained by a modification of their industry, and urges them to improve their gardens and to plant fruit trees.

Such an enterprise as that proposed at Hillsboro cannot fail of success if properly managed. The original product can be easily produced, the market is here and prices are high. The single establishment of this class in the state is in a flourishing condition, though it has struggled against difficulties which the proposed enterprise, in all likelihood, would not encounter. Joint stock companies in California and elsewhere are engaged largely in this business, and find it profitable, and there is no reason why the result should be otherwise in Oregon where the conditions are so favorable for success

Many of the journals of the country are predicting the failure of the cheap newspaper movement in New York They say that such journals as the Times and Herald will be obliged to go back to their old prices or reduce expense of publication. The former will be difficult, and the latter will reduce the quality and value of the newspapers It is asserted in many quarters that the Times, which led in the reduction, did a foolish and ill considered thing But in fact the policy of that paper is not the result of hasty action. It had long been contemplated and fully weighed. Still, it looks as if the reduction were as yet only an experiment, and the press of the whole country will watch the result with much interest

---

The remains of Captain H H Pierce the poet and soldier who died near Foster creek in eastern Washington early in the summer, were finally interred last week in the military cemetery at Fort Spokane The body was removed from its temporary resting place by Lieutenant Col F Sparrow, and the final burial was attended with the fullest military ceremonies which the little establishment at Spokane could bestow And although it was not possible for any member of Captain Pierce's family to be present, there was not lacking at the last scene the higher honors of woman's tears and of manly grief.

The Cincinnati Volksblatt remarks concerning the notable increase of the republican vote in the German wards of Cincinnati, that it is due, first to the revived attachment of the Germans to the Republican party, and, secondly, to their recognition of the propriety of taxation of the liquor traffic. The Volksblatt says a large proportion of the Germans consider it entirely proper that the state should derive a revenue from that traffic.

THE EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

The Protestant Episcopal Church is the oldest religious body in the country Its impressive liturgy was read at Jamestown seven years before the pilgrims landed at Plymouth But it is only within recent years that it has had here a hardy growth It did not attain its complete organization until 1781, when White and Provost were consecrated at Lambeth palace Prior to that time the clergy were dependent for ordination on the mother country and in New England for pecuniary support as well. This led to a wide spread suspicion that in some way they were rendered subservient to the political designs of the British government But political prejudice was not the only thing that impaired the influence of the church In the southern states where its strength was greatest, the careless lives of the clergy alienated many who were sincerely attached to its forms A clergyman in Virginia frankly confessed that whatever might be the case with the people of the north, those of the middle and southern provinces were certainly not remarkable for taking much interest in the concerns of religion" The revolution reduced it almost to annihilation" because the clergy, with a few notable exceptions, were tories, and at the close of the war many of them entertained scruples against taking the oath of allegiance required in some of the states Patrick Henry 'hurled the hot thunderbolts of his wrath against the tithe gathering clergy In New England where it had been scarcely more than a missionary church "the breath of popular sentiment set so strongly against it that its continuance was almost as precarious as that of a newly transplanted tree amidst the sweepings of the whirlwinds' and in Pennsylvania where it had encountered the least opposition, Dr White was for some time the only clergyman'

It was not until many years after attaining its complete organization here, passing from 'the Church of England in the colonies" to the "Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States of America," that it became an aggressive ecclesiastical or religious force Its leading characteristic "was eminent respectability" Its preaching reflected the moderate temper of the English church in that apologetic period when, as Dr Johnson said, "the apostles were tried regularly once a week on charge of committing forgery" It was moral rather than Evangelical. Its tone was usually most conciliatory Episcopal titles were cautiously defined. The convention of Maryland in 1783 recognized "other Christian churches under the American Revolution" In the preface of the prayer book it refers to itself as one of the different religious denominations of Christians in these states" Bishop White 'did not think the difficulties" to a union of the Episcopalians with the Methodist were 'insuperable, provided there was a conciliatory disposition on both sides' The first infusion of energy into this church was the introduction of the novel principle of lay representation by a change of the constitution brought about through the influence of Bishop White In 1804, Hobart's 'Companion to the Altar was published, in which the lawful authority' by which the sacraments might be administered was for the first time brought prominently before the public This provoked the memorable controversy with Dr Mason a prominent Presbyterian clergyman' and marks the beginning of a change of tone in the Episcopal church in this country It was the first sharp accentuation of its ecclesiastical distinctions Mr Hobart was soon afterward elevated to the Episcopate and in 1815 wrote a pastoral letter, taking strong grounds against co operation with other Christians in promoting religious objects, and boldly declaring That all the differences among Christians are on points subordinate and non essential is an unfounded assertion This letter was at first described as bold and startling Its maxims had for a time a weighty counterpoise in the Evangelical party But by degrees they became the accepted maxims of the church and were conclusively adopted by the convention of 1844 The decided growth of the Episcopal church began with this enunciation of its distinctive theory

The revival of the Church of England which was nearly contemporaneous with this strong denominational movement here, was of similar origin In 1833 Rev John Keble preached his famous sermon on "National Apostasy which led to the 'Oxford movement'—a strong and persistent assertion of the ecclesiastical peculiarities of the Anglican church One of the most striking features of ecclesiastical history is the connection thus illustrated, between the growth of the different Christian bodies and the zealous assertion by each of its distinctive faith. The Society of Friends was an aggressive force so long as it called itself 'the elect seed' and the rest of Christendom 'Babel,' but when it ceased to insist upon its exclusive claims it failed to make much impression upon the world At the beginning of the revolution the Congregationalists although confined mainly to New England, were by far the most numerous and influential denomination in the colonies But as a result of their facility of recognizing other churches especially the Presbyterian, equally as good as themselves, they have dwindled to the seventh rank among the more important religious bodies It is easier to convert people to a church than to religion, the history of all the churches shows this, and, we might add, it is easier to make people religious than to make them moral

The Episcopalians have discussed somewhat in their convention at Philadelphia the wisdom of changing their name and making them selves less a denomination and more catholic In the light of history we cannot but think that the result of such a change would be disappointing. The tendency of American Christianity, especially, is toward the strengthening of sectarian systems The Congregationalists, as we have said, have lost much ground by their failure to assert their denominational claims, and the Unitarians, to use an expressive phrase, are "getting left' still more, because their mission still more "overruns the boundaries of sects" The Roman Catholic church is the most denominational of all although claiming to be Catholic It is more exclusive than others, but in this exclusiveness is the main secret of its power This is only saying in other words that the growth of churches depends upon the concentrated force of conviction and faith which they bring to bear, through their organized efforts upon society The prevailing impulse of American religion is not, as is so often asserted, to split up into an endless variety of sects Dr Dollinger is reported to have said, 'How can I live in a country where they found a new church every day?' The tendency is in precisely the opposite direction Nearly all the sects were transplanted to this country to begin with, and the disposition of Christians now is to aggregate themselves under a few great denominational types We do not think the sectarian system tends to the development of the finest and noblest Christian culture, but it does stimulate zeal and gain adherents, as the history of the Episcopal church in this country plainly shows Any attempt on the part of that church to make itself less denominational, such as has been proposed at Philadelphia, will prove to be a great denominational mistake

The Cincinnati Commercial Gazette reminds the prohibitionists of Ohio that if the amendment for which they contended had carried they would still have needed a majority of the legislature to enforce it There was a notion abroad it says that if the amendment prevailed it would have magically closed the doors of every saloon in Ohio When it was shown that nothing of the sort would happen, and that it would require legislative reinforcement to give the amendment effect the assertion, though backed by the best legal opinion in the state, was received with a shout of derision Yet nothing was truer. The amendment adopted, the contention would have recurred biennially on the complexion of the legislature, and the anti-prohibitionists on the one side, backed by the money of a great vested interest would have been able to carry a majority of the legislature, and the amendment would have been a dead letter for years to come If the Ohio prohibitionists can capture the legislature, there is nothing in the constitution as it now stands to prohibit them from abolishing the manufacture and sale of all intoxicants within the limits of the state And the same is true of Oregon The fact is that a constitutional amendment will help in much less degree to suppress the liquor traffic than most people suppose It can at best be no better than a statute and because it can not be enforced without a statute it may not be so good

The bill for a county option herd law introduced in the legislature of Washington by Mr Besserer of Walla Walla is drawn with great precision and elaboration It is a new application of the principle of county option

IN MEMORIAM

Mrs Mary E Smith beloved wife of A M Smith sweetly breathed her last in this city Sunday Oct 21 at 10 o'clock P M aged 40 years 1 months and 18 days She was born in Fayette county Pennsylvania April 3 1843 In her 19th year she was married to A M Smith of Cedar Rapids, Iowa April 10 1861 In 1863 they moved to Oregon coming by the way of the Isthmus of Panama After a short stay in Albany they made a permanent home in Buena Vista Polk county and began in earnest that life of usefulness that so characterized them in their future course with those with whom they lived

In the spring of 1881 Mr Smith with his family moved to Portland, and have resided here ever since Some ten years ago Mrs Smith's health began to fail, and through all the succeeding years of her life she has been a constant and patient sufferer Hoping to gain some benefit from a change of climate, her husband in the year 1876 took her to her old home in the states and also to Danville, N Y and many other resorts During this trip they traveled over 10,000 miles and the constant change seemed to benefit her, for the fell disease that was preying upon her was checked for a time but only for a time for disease had marked her for its victim

In the year 1880 her husband hoping the purer air of Hood River might benefit her built a cottage there and here she spent the summer and winter She returned in the spring rather worse than better So through the long years she was a great sufferer but under it all she murmured not patiently she bore it all her only regrets were that she could not have health and strength to do more good in the world

While at Buena Vista, before sickness came upon her she was an active worker in the Sunday school, her class was always a large one, for she had that loving, winning way that drew the young people around her In the prayer meeting she was an active worker, and her counsel helped many a wandering one to choose the better way In her childhood she united with the Methodist church and was always a consistent member Her father and mother were devoted Christians and many of the loving traits of her mother's character were beautifully exemplified in her

A few years ago at a prayer meeting held at her house at Buena Vista, for the young people delighted to gather there, she was in a peculiarly happy state of mind, which seemed to follow her in the visions of the night, and she dreamed she was in that happy land where sorrow and sighing never come She was so happy that she sang in a sweet voice:

> "Holy spirit faithful guide,
> Ever near the Christian's side,
> Gently lead us by the hand
> Pilgrims in a desert land,
> Whispering softly wanderer come
> Follow me, I'll guide thee home
>
> 'Ever present, truest friend
> Ever near thine aid to lend,
> Leave us not to doubt and fear
> Groping on in darkness drear
> When the storms are raging sore,
> Hearts grow faint and hopes give o'er
> Whispering softly wanderer come
> Follow me I'll guide thee home
>
> "When our days of toil shall cease
> Waiting still for sweet release
> Wondering if our names were there
> Wading deep the dismal flood
> Pleading naught but Jesus blood
> Whispering softly Wanderer come
> Follow me I'll guide thee home

The singing awoke her husband who listened thrilled by the almost angelic music The impressions of the dream never left her and through all her suffering the bright thoughts of that dream seemed to ease the pain and was like an oasis in a desert land She was a fond and loving wife a gentle and patient mother Her true Christian character shone out in her life and in her triumphant death Her life had been devoted to God death had no terrors for her To her it was no dark valley through which she was passing it was not dark but bright She had relied upon her Savior in life and in death He strengthened her and gave her a triumphant entrance into the city not made with hands

A few hours before her death she gathered her family about her bedside and though suffering greatly she talked to them with all a mother's love and affection and counseled them how to live that they might all join her in that paradise above As she talked to them the same sweet smile stole over her countenance that was so marked by all who knew her for she ever had that sweet smile for every one She then kissed them all and bade them good bye She was conscious to the last and would often ask her husband if the pulse had left her wrist She was calm and unmoved in the hour of death Oh what a beautiful, firm faith she had in her redeemer Her pastor came to see her Sunday afternoon and as he approached her bedside she said in faint whispers Almost home almost home At her request he administered the holy sacrament to her which seemed to comfort her greatly At 10 o'clock the same night her pure spirit winged its way from earth to heaven She leaves a devoted husband and five children to mourn her loss They have the heartfelt sympathy of their many relatives and friends in this their sad bereavement

She was buried in the new cemetery south of Portland Tuesday Oct 23 The hymns she loved in life so much, were sung at her funeral by her request Jesus Lover of my Soul, Rock of Ages, and at the open grave 'Holy Spirit Faithful Guide Ever Near the Christian's side The sweet influence of her life so devoted so earnest so faithful and patient will live long in the memories of all who knew her and her christian devotion be continually calling to the better land

THE PENALTIES OF GENIUS

Showing the Misfortunes that have Befallen an Inventor's Wife.

'It is all very well to talk about working for the heathen said one, as the ladies put up their sewing,' but I'd like to have some one tell me what I am to do with my husband?" 'What is the matter with him? asked a sympathetic old lady 'William is a good man,' continued the first waving her glasses in an argumentative way 'but William will invent He goes inventing around from morning till night and I have no peace or comfort I didn't object when he invented a fire escape but I did remonstrate when he wanted me to crawl out of the window one night last winter to see how it worked Then he originated a lock for the door that wouldn't open from midnight until morning so as to keep burglars out The first time he tried it he caught his coat tail in it and I had to walk around him with a pan of hot coals all night to keep him from freezing Why didn't he take his coat off I wanted him to, but he stood round until the thing opened itself trying to invent some way of unfastening it That's William's trouble He will invent A little while ago he got up a cabinet bedstead that would shut and open without handling It went by clockwork William got into it and up it went Bless your heart, he stayed in there from Saturday afternoon till Sunday night when it flew open and disclosed William with the plans and specifications of a patent wash bowl that would tip over just when it got so full The result was that I lost all my rings and a breastpin down the waste pipe Then he got up a crutch for a man that could be used as an opera glass Whenever the man leaned on it up it went and when he put it to his eye to find William it flew out into a crutch and almost broke the top of his head off The other day I saw him going up the street with the model of a grain elevator sticking out of his hip pocket and he is fixing up an improved shot tower in our bedroom

Political Speculations.

Gath in Philadelphia Times

I hear that Arthur does not care about the presidency and that Blaine's friends expect that he will get the nomination

In New York state there is republican harmony with great apathy I think it will go democratic by 30,000 although there is hostility to the Manning management of the state ticket It is said that Kelly is tired of politics that Conkling is becoming a nuisance to his old servitors whom he scolds and and that the western democrats are colleaguing again at Cleveland on the matter of appropriations Salt Mr Hiscock to me

If Carlisle is elected speaker of congress, we shall elect the next president In 1876 it seemed that we stood no show at all We elected Garfield by the hesitancy of the business element to let the democrats in The chief question in congress said Mr Hiscock 'is appropriation The west and south want liberal appropriations for their rivers harbors, levees public buildings, surveys etc New England New York and a part of Ohio resist appropriations The west will trust no eastern man but Blaine He favors liberal appropriations I have little doubt that he is looking toward the nomination though his policy is not to seem to be His friends hold to him everywhere New York state is full of them Mr Conkling keeps up no organization here at all and I understand that occasionally he is doing an old partisan is there in [illegible] his interest in politics The list of available men for president is being thinned out General Sherman and Senator Edmunds repel it [illegible] retirement is the best route to the [illegible] If he were to labor for it he would be less available I think said Mr Hiscock that the western democrats will beat Cleveland although he is prominent now Referring to President Arthur the same gentleman said I do not know whether he wants a nomination or not I hear that he is indifferent about it

FAILURE OF J. BACHMAN & BRO.

AD. BACHMAN DISAPPEARS, AND NO FUNDS LEFT BEHIND.

Liabilities About $50,000; Assets Trifling—The Firm's Affairs in Chaotic Condition—Reports of Losses at Cards by the Junior Partner.

It became currently rumored early yesterday afternoon that the firm of J. Bachman & Bro., brokers and insurance managers, had failed, and that payment of checks drawn upon them by depositors had been refused on account of want of funds. Inquiry at their office showed that the report was true. Mr. E. L. Reed, bookkeeper of the insurance department, was nominally in charge, and could give no definite information on the subject, except that Adolph Bachman, the junior partner, more familiarly known as "Ad.," had not been seen about the office since last Monday evening, and that affairs were in a bad condition. Mr. Reed stated that Ad. left the office as usual about half-past 7 Monday evening. Joseph Bachman, the senior partner, was then ill of malarial fever. Ad. did not come down to the office Tuesday, and business during the day was hampered because the safe could not be opened. Wednesday Joe came down town, though he was in no condition to leave his room, opened the safe, and a cursory examination showed that the funds were gone. The books were then looked into, and everything was found to be in confusion, showing a very bad state of affairs. This chaos, however, prevailed only on the financial or brokerage side of the house. Ever since the firm was organized Ad. has had charge of the finances, Joe attending exclusively to the outside insurance business. The insurance books and papers were in good order, so far as the risks were concerned, and business went on as usual. On Thursday the news of Ad.'s absence or flight, as the case may be, was still kept secret. About noon yesterday a check on the firm, drawn by Potter, the cigar dealer, was refused by the First National bank, and soon after the news became public.

EXTENT OF THE FAILURE.

No one in the city, so far as could be learned, has anything like a correct knowledge of the firm's liabilities, Ad. having had entire charge of that department. Debts are estimated at between $40,000 and $50,000. The largest creditor is the First National bank, which holds about $12,000 worth of their paper, secured by collaterals, and further secured by a mortgage given by Joe last Wednesday on some property in the south end valued at $3500. They owe the Portland Savings bank about $2500; not secured. Quite a number of small dealers banked with the firm, because they could deposit and get drafts at much later hours than with banks. Among those who lose from $500 to $1000 are Norden & Andrus, H. C. Potter, G. Linderman, T. Sinsheimer, Louis Lemline, Henry Lemline and others. A considerable number of Hebrew women deposited their savings with the firm, and are losers in sums ranging from $100 to $1000.

Mrs. S. Abraham had deposited $750 the savings of years. She and her husband stood around the office two or three hours, trying to learn the condition of things, without being able to elicit any information. Mr. Abraham remarked: "My wife feels very bad. She saved the money for a rainy day and now it's raining and she can't get the money."

Whether the money belonging to the insurance companies represented by them is involved is also not known. They were agents for the Connecticut Fire, North British and Mercantile, German-American, Scottish Union and National, Lion and Hamburg-Magdeburg fire insurance companies, and for the marine department of the Firemen's Fund of San Francisco. Their operations were not confined to Portland alone, but extended through interior agencies, into different parts of Oregon and Washington. It is not likely that any of the policies issued by them will be invalidated or jeopardized by the failure. Of course the companies are protected by bonds.

No one can form an estimate of the assets. It is generally understood that notes for money which they loaned were turned over to the First National bank as collateral, and remaining assets are supposed to be very small.

JOE BACHMAN'S STATEMENT.

A reporter of THE OREGONIAN called in the afternoon on Joe Bachman at his residence, No. 384 East Park street. Though confined to his bed from the fever and a severe cold, he consented to talk. He said that the failure was as much a surprise to him as to anyone else. Entire control of the finances had been given to his brother, and he had trusted Ad. implicitly never interfering in any way with the inside management of the business. He had no idea of the liabilities of the firm, and could not have until a complete examination had been made. He expected to be able to leave his bed to-day or to-morrow, and with the help of an expert learn exactly the condition of affairs. This done, he would call a meeting of the creditors and do his best toward a settlement. He had already sent for Mr. Stillman, manager of the insurance companies represented here, and asked him to telegraph to his (Bachman's) companies.

THE NEWS OF THE FAILURE

Was received with great surprise by down town merchants, among whom the report spread rapidly. While the brothers never had any considerable possessions, they stood well in the business community, and always had fair credit. Joe was city treasurer for six years, Ad. handling all the money, amounting to millions, and every cent was honestly accounted for. When the books were turned over to his successor, the committee on ways and means complimented him on the very able manner in which the books had been kept.

It is stated by those who know that Ad. has been gambling of late, often till 4 o'clock in the morning, at the club room on Washington street, near First, and that his losses at poker have been very heavy. Joe said that he also had heard of this, and believed it to be true.

Late in the afternoon, Stearns Bros., cigar dealers, who have a deposit certificate of $125, attached the building occupied by the firm, and the safes, fixtures, etc.

The furniture store of W. B. Wallace, on Second street, between Main and Salmon, was closed by the sheriff yesterday upon an attachment issued by Judge Stott in the suit of Walter Bros. for the sum of $3901 30.

The ship Titan, lying at the foot of Taylor street, has been delayed somewhat in getting her Chinese supplies on board, but the Celestials were ordered to go aboard yesterday, and it is thought the vessel will sail to-day.

L. Jacobs and M. Marks, two merchants, arrested by the police for obstructing sidewalks by leaving goods in front of their stores, contrary to a city ordinance, did not appear for trial yesterday, and each forfeited to the city his bail of $5.

F. Stapleton has obtained a five years' lease on the lot adjoining the Couch hotel on the south, and is erecting a three-story building, about 40x60 feet in size, for a lodging house. The frame is now up and the building will probably be completed entire during the next month.

Alum is used in many baking powders as a cheap substitute for fruit acid. All such powders are dangerous, for it requires no considerable amount of alum to disorder digestion and ruin health. Ammonia is sometimes used to enliven the powder. To escape all of these objectionable drugs, use only Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder.

WOODEN AND WILLOW WARE.

We visited yesterday the wholesale wooden and willow warehouse of L. Feldman & Co., at 125 Front street, who, by the way, have branch stores in San Francisco, Melbourne and Sydney. Upon inquiry of these gentlemen, we learned that no dealers in wooden ware on the Pacific coast manufacture their own ware. This house imports from several Eastern factories, and also from the Coos Bay Stave and Lumber Co's factory in San Francisco, in which association they own a large amount of stock. It seems that there are only four factories of this kind on the coast, first in importance being the Coos Bay Stave and Lumber Co., in San Francisco; next, the California Penitentiary factory, and then the old Nichols factory in Sacramento. Some eight months ago, however, the latter two factories were purchased by the Coos Bay association, so at present all three of the California factories belong to them. Next in order comes the Portland, or St. John's factory, which is owned by a prominent wholesale grocery firm in Portland. It seems to us, that with all the timber, water power and other facilities naturally afforded here, there should be more manufactories of this description in Oregon.

THE MECHANICS' FAIR.

To-night will wind up the fair. There will of course be a crush at the pavilion, and the scene will be unusually brilliant. A fine musical programme has been arranged for the occasion.

H. SINSHEIMER.

Our report of the fair for 1883 would be incomplete did we not say a few words in regard to the famous Decker & Son piano exhibited in the main gallery by Mr. Sinsheimer, the agent for the Northwest. The Decker & Son piano has maintained the lead in the United States for many years. It has been indorsed by such eminent musicians as Emma Abbott, William G. Vogt, Clara E. Colby, S. B. Mills, Emilia Parodi, Luigi Arditi, Anna Bishop, and hundreds of others whom we have not space to mention. Recently a great improvement has been made in these renowned instruments. The improvement is a wonderful discovery, and has stirred the musical world with admiration. The new improvement is in the use of composition metallic frames, which are really a surprise to every musician who has touched the keys of this noble instrument. With the new composition metallic frames, the Decker & Son piano is noted for its prolonged singing quality, great depth and purity of tone in all the registers, and prompt elastic touch, combined with great power and adaptation to withstand the influences of extreme climates. They also have an improved rest plank, which, with the new composition metallic frames, make them stronger, and capable of much greater resistance to the tension of all the strings than old cast iron plates used by other makers, and which makes them remain in tune, and up to pitch superior to all others. We had the pleasure of listening to one of the Decker & Son's upright and baby grand pianos last evening at the pavilion, which are constructed with the new composition metallic frames. They are beautiful instruments. In quality of tone they are certainly unsurpassed by any upright pianos made. Their bass is powerful, while each tone is perfect and distinct by itself. The middle is rich and full, and the treble is brilliant and clear as a bell. The great power and the excellently sustained tone quality of the instruments, together with the added strength and beauty of the new composition metallic frames, prove at once the superiority of these frames over the old cast iron plates heretofore used. Another point of interest in these instruments made with the metallic composition frame is, that by reason of its superior strength a lighter character of construction is permitted, it being more of a skeleton in design than the ordinary plate, yet offering a greater resistance to the tremendous pull on the strings. But of the greatest importance is the wonderful rich quality of tone which the use of this frame secures. So popular and celebrated has this magnificent instrument become, that parties have undertaken to counterfeit the name and palm off inferior instruments on unsuspecting buyers. Purchasers should see that they get the genuine Decker & Son pianos, established 1856, for which H. Sinsheimer, No. 81 Yamhill street, between First and Second, is the sole agent for the northwest.

B. W. PRENTICE'S

Elegant display of pianos and organs is pronounced by all to be the finest exhibit in the fair. His Prentice piano is the richest and purest in tone of any we have heard, and as to price, it is very low considering the excellency of the instrument.

RUSSELL & CO.

Exhibit the New Massillon thresher and also the best saw mill machinery ever displayed at the fair The Massillon thresher has the "kicker" attachment which is a great improvement. Its operation is exactly that of a man (or several men) with a fork lightly separating and tossing the straw as it passes from under the second beater. The third beater prevents the tossing of the light straw too far. Winding, so fatal to many separating devices, is unknown with this attachment. Every farmer who has seen it work is delighted with it.

FOSTER & ROBERTSON'S

Exhibit was brilliantly lighted up last evening, and attracted great attention from all visitors to the pavilion. The elegant finish of the mantels, which they display, were much commented on, the conclusion of all seemed to be that they were the most beautiful ever seen in Portland. The firm also exhibit a splendid assortment of table cutlery, which has attracted the earnest attention of many housewives. The gas fixtures, also come in for a vast amount of praise. Many have remarked on the beautiful designs of the metal framed stand and hand mirrors, of which they exhibit a great variety. In their exhibit we also noticed a good assortment of reflectors, large and small, also elegant chandeliers, fine razors, fountain fixtures, etc., all of the best make, latest in design and varied in assortment. Altogether we can truthfully say that the firm of Foster & Robertson make one of the most attractive displays in the fair. They are an enterprising firm, and are pushing their trade in all parts of the northwest, and maintaining the lead through promptness, first-class goods and low prices.

NELSON, DALL & CO.,

The popular druggists, No. 91 Third street, Ainsworth block, have on exhibit the finest assortment of toilet articles ever seen at any fair in Portland. The articles are varied in assortment and prices, beautiful in design and finish, and will be much sought after as Christmas and New Years' gifts. They also have on display their celebrated hair tonic—the Quinine Hair Tonic—which they manufacture, and which is an excellent remedy to keep the hair from falling out. While it is being used no other dressing is needed. It stimulates the growth and keeps the hair healthy and vigorous. They have also other specialties, which are meeting with much favor among the people of Oregon, Washington and Idaho.

A. M. SMITH,

The proprietor of the Buena Vista pottery works, has on display a large assortment of his wares. The exhibit comprises excellent samples of sewer pipe, drain tile, stoneware, chimney flues, flower pots, fine brick, etc. Mr. Smith has conducted this business for many years, and by hard work, fair dealing and the production of first class wares, has succeeded in building up an immense trade which extends to all parts of the northwest. Recently he has added a new line to his manufacture, that of chimney flues. He saw no reason why all the chimney flues used in the northwest should be shipped from other countries when just as good ones could be made right here at home, so he has entered largely into this branch of the business. That he will succeed in this there is no doubt, as the samples on exhibition at the pavilion show a superiority over the imported article.

THE VICTOR MOWING MACHINE

Is considered by all the farmers who have visited the fair this year as being the best machine ever brought to Oregon. It has met with a large sale throughout this state and Washington territory, and has given universal satisfaction. It has strength and durability, yet is simple in construction. It has a compound draft attachment, which renders it entirely free from side draft. It has a very strong pitman and revolving gun metal boxes, instead of babbit. Being geared high, with two pawls in each wheel, it will always cut its way out. These and other superior points make it the best mowing machine in market.

THE NORTH PACIFIC MANUFACTURING CO.

Feel very much encouraged by the enthusiastic praise which has been so freely bestowed on the character of their work exhibited at the fair. Through the exhibit they have made many sales and taken orders for quite a number of carriages, buckboards, etc. It is the most complete display in this line ever made here before and comprises numerous styles of carriages, buckboards, buggies, driving carts, express, delivery and grocery wagons, trucks, drays, lumber wagons, thoroughbrace coaches, etc. In their repository, corner of 22d and T streets, they have over thirty different kinds of vehicles which they manufacture. They also manufacture street cars, agricultural implements etc., which for workmanship and excellent material used cannot be surpassed. The manager, Wesley Jackson, would be pleased to have intending purchasers pay a visit to the factory and examine the material used in the manufacture of different work before purchasing, that they may satisfy themselves as to the very superior quality of all material used in the construction of all their articles. To reach their factory take either the Washington or Third street cars.

THE DOMESTIC

Sewing machine on exhibition in the main hall near the central entrance to machinery hall has many points of excellence. Its set of attachments are very fine, it is light running, elegant in finish, noiseless, seldom gets out of repair and withal low in price. These and other qualities make it a favorite with large numbers. Mr. F. L. Tileston, the agent, is located at 65 Morrison street, where all the different styles can be seen.

BAYER & STAUCH.

Manufacturers of galvanized iron cornices, metal roofers, have a very attractive display in the main hall to the right of the Second street entrance. Their exhibit of the celebrated Netivel patent smoke and ventilating chimney, ventilators and chimney tops are noticed by all. These are the best articles in the market and, being very low in price, they meet with a large sale. Bayer & Stauch have a large trade in galvanized iron cornices and are the leaders in that line in Portland.

PAUL J. A. SEMLER & CO.'S

Display of homeopathic medicines still receive much attention from visitors. They have a full stock of physicians' supplies at wholesale; also homeopathic books, etc. On application their family homeopathic assistant will be mailed free to any address. Their well stocked establishment is located at 93 Morrison street, between Fourth and Fifth.

H. F. GULLIXSON & CO.'S

Fine display of carpets is really a pleasure to look upon. He has the latest designs in Alex. Smith & Son's moquettes, the fine framed Bigelow-body Brussels and other superior makes of carpets, which go to make up the finest line of goods in Portland. They have a new floor covering, "English Corticine," which is superior to anything of the kind ever made. Call at their store, corner of First and Yamhill, and examine their beautiful stock.

THE CENTENNIAL GATE,

Exhibited by J. Q. Young, has been pronounced by all as the best invention in that line ever made. For the farmer it is invaluable. Drivers of vehicles or horsemen can open it without leaving their seats. When it is closed it is securely locked, and is simple, cheap and durable. For particulars address Mr. Young at Cedar Mill, Washington county, Oregon.

J. C. CARSON'S

Exhibit is noted for its completeness. It embraces everything in building material that is used in the construction of buildings. He has unrivaled facilities for furnishing all kinds of hardware, plate and window glass, and is a manufacturer of sash, doors and blinds, window and door frames, mouldings, brackets, cornices, etc., in endless variety. He has stairs and all kinds of stair material constantly on hand, and also a large stock of seasoned finishing lumber. These are all furnished at low prices. Take a look at his exhibit and see the style of his goods.

A. ROBERTS'

Fine exhibit of men's, youths' and boys' clothing is one of the main attractions in the gallery. Roberts is ahead, and don't you forget it.

F. S. CHADBOURNE & CO.

Have captured the people with their greatest and last novelty in the furniture line—the Burr parlor folding bed. Don't fail to see it. It is one of the most wonderful inventions of the age. They are elegant in style, cheap in price, durable, easily made down and folded up, takes but little room when not in use and has many other points of excellence which commend it to the public. Chadbourne & Co. have a large stock of the very finest furniture on the coast, embracing all the new styles and late designs. They have a large manufacturing and importing house in San Francisco through which they obtain facilities that enable them to sell all goods at the very lowest rates, and also places them in a position to obtain every new style or design as soon as it is out. This gives their patrons immense advantages. Their sales and ware rooms are located on the corner of First and Yamhill, where the visitors will find polite and efficient attendants who will assist them in the selection of goods.

A. G. WALLING,

Whose display of lithographic work at the fair has attracted so much attention, will maintain the lead in this line of work without doubt as long as he remains in the business. He never turns out poor work or employs inferior artists, consequently he is always crowded with orders.

FRANK G. ABELL

Is another man who leads in his business. The photographs on display at the pavilion are a fair sample of what his general work is, and if it doesn't excel any other work on the coast then we don't know good from bad.

PIANOS AT THE FAIR.

The rich, pure tone of the McCammon piano exhibited at the booth of J. H. Robbins & Son rings out through the pavilion every evening to the great delight of all visitors.

THE MITCHELL WAGONS.

The Mitchell wagon is a great favorite with all who have use for a good wagon. So also are the carriages, buggies, express, delivery, grocery and other spring wagons turned out by the Mitchell Wagon Company. If our readers wish to see an elegant stock of these last named let them go to the Mitchell warerooms on Front, between Yamhill and Taylor.

G. SHINDLER & CO'S

Exhibit of school furniture is a special feature of the fair. Their display of parlor and bedroom furniture, wall paper, etc., still bring an admiring throng around their booth. The folding chair exhibited by them is one of the most interesting of all exhibits. As a chair it is an elegant easy chair; unfold it and you have a splendid lounge; with still more unfolding a bed of large size, easy springs and fine appearance is secured. Don't fail to see this wonderful easy chair.

L. G. PFUNDER'S

Floral display could have been by no other florist in Portland. His beautifully fitted booth is decorated with flowers of all kinds, and artistically arranged with pampas grasses in varied colors, water flowers of various hues and variety, white and pink camellias, hanging baskets, etc., the splendors of which must be seen to be appreciated. His display in floral hall is also on a grand scale, and embraces all the beautiful flowers and plants that grow.

CLIFF WASS

Has shown the people of the northwest what can be done by a first-class artist in his line. The lady visitors at the fair have been united in commendation of his exhibit. Especially do they admire his new style waves, scalpets, wigs, curls and also his general display of hair goods. The display is composed only of average samples of goods selected at random from his general stock, and is not a "picked lot" for special exhibit. At his store, 64 Morrison street, can be seen any amount of just such goods as is displayed at the pavilion.

S. & G. GUMP

Have the most beautiful display of picture frames, mirrors, statuary, onyx top stands, etc. ever seen in Portland. No other dealer in the northwest could have made such an elegant and varied exhibit. Much of the magnificent gilt work was done by Mr. T. B. Harrington, who is now with the firm, and who has superintended the artistic arrangement of the goods.

CAPITOL MILLS FLOUR.

The exhibit of the City of Salem Company is very striking, being a pyramid of their renowned Capital mills flour in bleached cotton sacks, which look so well that they are taken by many to be of silk and satin.

This favorite flour has again taken the silver medal (the highest award given at the Mechanics' fair), not for fine display of silk sacks but for superiority and excellence of manufacture.

This is the third year in succession this flour has won the medal, which distinction speaks for itself. All first-class grocers keep this superior article.

STAVER & WALKER.

This well known firm have the only complete line of farming machinery on exhibition. Their display comprises the celebrated J. I. Case Agitator separators, traction engines and Dingee horse-powers, Studebaker farm and spring wagons and buggies, Hoosier seeders, drills and sulky rakes, J. I. Case sulky and walking plows, Acme harrows, Diamond feed mills, etc. The energy and business ability of this house, as evinced by their securing the best machinery made in the United States and selling on fair terms, at a reasonable profit, has built up the leading business in the Pacific northwest. More Agitator separators were sold by them this season than of all other kinds by all other dealers in this market, and they are everywhere acknowledged to run lighter, thresh faster and save grain better than any other machine ever made. The J. I. Case engines and sawmills are unequaled for all that goes to make up a complete, well finished and durable machine.

J. K. GASELTINE & CO.,

Dealers in hard wood lumber, carriage and wagon material, 226 and 228 Front street, have on exhibit Dexter Queen gearings for buggies. This makes a very popular buggy. It is low down, easy of access and of such easy motion. The Ludlow Express gearing—what the Dexter Queen is in point of excellence as a buggy, so is the "Ludlow" as a spring for light delivery and business wagons. They have also the popular "Brewster" side bar, and "Seladeo" combination buggy gearings; are prepared to furnish bodies, dashes, cushions, tops, sarven or wood hub wheels, with all the parts to complete the same, so that blacksmiths and wagonmakers can compete with eastern manufactured work of the same class. They deal largely in iron, steel, Cumberland coal and all kinds of blacksmiths' and wagonmakers' supplies, and a visit to their immense warerooms will give intending purchasers a better idea of these goods than anything we can say in these columns.

THE PACIFIC SPRING AND MATTRESS COMPANY'S

Display of mattresses and lounges are attracting more attention than usual. Their mattresses and lounges are perfection in themselves. The diagon bed lounge is the handsomest and strongest one we have ever seen. It opens and closes with the greatest ease—a child even can manipulate it. One of the greatest merits of this bed lounge is that it does away with all strings and cords which other lounges are operated with, and which are so troublesome and easy to get out of order.

THE OREGON MILLING COMPANY

Have received the medal for the best flour. This is the flour put up in the silk and satin bags, and which received so much attention from all visitors to the pavilion. It is without doubt the best flour ever made in the state, and can be had at all the grocery and produce stores in the northwest. They will keep up the standard of their make fully to that exhibited at the fair, and when you want good flour buy Oregon's Pride.

FURS AT THE FAIR.

Mr. Behlow, who makes such a splendid display at the fair of fine furs, has one of the largest and most elegant stocks in this line ever seen in Oregon. At his store on Washington street, between First and Second, one can find a large and varied stock to select from, and his prices for goods are much lower than have ever ruled here before. We are glad to see him meeting large patronage and hope to see him still further increase it.

CHAS. LOUIS KUHN

Has received the medal for the best billiard table. This we predicted at the outset of the fair. His tables are hard to beat, and when anyone attempts to compete with them they must get up a very superior article indeed. In fact we don't believe a better table for general use could be made. And as for the woodwork on them we are free to say it can not be excelled. We consider the medal has been justly awarded in this case.

A. P. NELSON,

Who displays some very fine road carts, open and top buggies, feels that an injustice has been done in awarding the medals. He is willing to stake one hundred dollars or upwards that he has got the best made, most elegantly finished and handsomest top buggy exhibited at the fair this year. He says that fairness did not characterize the action of the management and is willing to forfeit one hundred dollars, and leave it to any carriage manufacturer on the Pacific coast, if the one selected decides that he has not the best top buggy on exhibition at the fair. He throws down the gauntlet and dares all competitors to take it up. Nor will anyone come forward and test this matter in this manner. Mr. Nelson means business, and would be only too happy to have his competitors accept his challenge. We cannot say if they dare do this or not.

DAYTON, HALL & LAMBERSON'S

Exhibit of hardware, fishing tackle, cutlery, etc., is very creditable to that firm. They carry one of the finest stocks in Portland, and have trade connections in all parts of the northwest.

JOHN CLARK,

The popular saddler and harness dealer, 104 and 106 Front street, has the best display of articles in his line ever made in Oregon. Everyone has noticed and spoken words of praise in regard to the beautiful articles on exhibit.

HOLLADAY VS. HOLLADAY.

Joseph Gives his Side of the Story and Denies Everything that Ben Alleges.

It is learned that Mr. Joseph Holladay objects to some portion of the local about the proposed law suit published yesterday. He says that Ben never gave him any bar-room rights, but that for thirteen or fourteen years he rented of different companies at their full value a large number of such rights, and paid for them, as the books of the companies will show. Next, that when the properties he now holds were sold him he took them unconditionally and absolutely, and that this was understood at the time by all parties and has been so understood for the last seven years, and the matter has been repeatedly examined into by Ben's creditors with the same result. Next, that he would like to see the color of the hair of the lawyer who drew up or saw signed any such agreement as that he should re-convey the property or anything like it, as no such agreement was ever made or was ever in existence; next, that he never demanded fabulous or any sums as manager, etc., and no talk or negotiations have ever been had on that subject; that as an American citizen he has managed his property for the last seven years as he thought best for it, and of course if by any "hocus pocus" it could be taken from him, that he would be entitled to fair pay for the time he has had charge of it and

That when he purchased this property it was practically bankrupt, and was not more than equal in value to the amount paid for it, which was over $150,000, but is now worth over $1,000,000, and not one cent worth of it has ever been wasted by him.

Mr. Joseph further said that as this matter was now in the courts he didn't care to try it in the papers, but all he wanted was a fair start, and for the rest he wasn't afraid to let the courts decide. The case will undoubtedly be an interesting one, as it will bring up a good many old matters, and will show where a good deal of the Holladay fortune went.

MILITARY AND PERSONAL.

Vancouver Independent.

Captain W. S. Patten, depot quartermaster, is lying at his quarters, quite sick from pneumonia.

Captain Robert Pollock, late of the Twenty-first Infantry, now retired, has taken up his residence at Cornelius, Oregon.

Captain Gilbert C. Smith, quartermaster department, has gone to San Francisco on a short trip before taking station at Portland.

Captain J. Q. Adams, First cavalry, on duty at Fort Coeur d'Alene, with his wife paid a visit to friends at the barracks this week.

Lieutenant R. H. Patterson, First artillery, departed with his family for San Francisco on Saturday last, where he goes on a new tour of duty.

Captain S. G. Whipple, First cavalry, paid a flying visit to Vancouver on Friday last, and has gone since to Fort Townsend on public business.

Lieutenant Frank Greene, Signal corps, Lieutenant E. J. A. Dair, Twelfth infantry, and Major Poole, pay department, registered at headquarters on the 17th inst.

Lieutenant Thomas W. Symons, engineer corps, has returned to Washington, after a trip over the boundary line between Mexico and the United States.

Lieutenant W. R. Abercrombie, Second Infantry, has resumed the duties of acting assistant inspector general of the department during the temporary absence of General Greene.

General Nelson A. Miles left Washington on Tuesday, en route for his station at the head of this department. Lieutenant O. F. Long, aid-de-camp, left yesterday by the N. P. R. R. to meet him.

On Wednesday evening, 17th inst., the officers and ladies of the barracks gave at the garrison hall a farewell entertainment to Lieutenant and Mrs. Patterson, on the eve of their departure for San Francisco. It was an enjoyable affair, and showed well the high esteem in which Lieutenant Patterson and his wife are held at the barracks.

A new map of the Vancouver military reservation has recently been made by topographical assistant A. Downing from surveys and notes by C. A. Homan, topographical assistant. The map shows the entire reservation, and new roads, location of all buildings, parade grounds, etc. The map is complete, or would be if the workmen would stop moving buildings to new locations every day or so.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST.

Eastern Oregon.

The Grant county agricultural fair will open October 30 and close November 1. The association offers $5000 in purses for speed of horses in the different classes. The stallion race purse will reach $600 to $1000, free to all horses in America.

Western Oregon.

Salem is to have a new city jail, built of brick, in the rear of the city hall. It will be 28x34 feet, one story high, and will contain seven cells. Mr. J. J. Shepherd is the contractor.

There are about 150,000 bushels of wheat lying near the Willamette at Wheatland, awaiting shipment, which has been delayed on account of the low water making navigation impossible on the Willamette.

Salem Statesman: Mrs. Dillard, wife of Rev. John Dillard, of Dillard's Station, met with a sad misfortune Monday, from the effects of which she will probably not recover. In attempting to replace some firebrands that had rolled off the fire she fell forward into the blazing mass, and her clothing instantly taking fire, she would have been speedily consumed only for the timely arrival of the hired girl, who, with the almost presence of mind, threw a blanket over her and extinguished the flames. Help was called, and all that could be done was done for the suffering woman, yet little hopes are entertained of her recovery. She is about 80 years old, and one of Oregon's pioneers.

Washington Territory.

On the 19th snow fell between Yakima and Ellensburg, completely covering the ground.

There are now thirteen engines at work on the Kalama and Puyallup division of the N. P. R. R. and work is increasing so rapidly that a greater number will soon be required.

Vancouver Independent: Potato digging is being engaged in quite extensively these days and the crop is turning out much better than it was expected, although it is a short crop.

Seattle Chronicle: Slides for freight are being cut in the new O. R. & N. dock. It is gratifying to note that preparations for the erection of a railing along the approach to the warehouse are being made.

The fall term of the United States district court, holding terms for the counties of Clarke and Skamania, will convene in Vancouver on Monday, November 5. The cases on the docket are unusually numerous.

A few days ago, says the Vancouver Independent, Charles [illegible], while engaged shoeing a fractious horse, was thrown with great force against the bar [illegible] of the blacksmith shop and a gash was cut in the scalp about three inches long. Had he been thrown a little harder, or more to one side, he would undoubtedly have been killed.

An Olympia correspondent, writing to the Seattle Herald, says: Young Hewitt, who was shot by highwaymen in the suburbs of the city last Saturday evening, is doing as well as could be expected, but is said to be in a critical condition. It has now almost become a settled conviction in the public mind that the perpetrators of the crime were not Chinamen, though that seemed to be the impression of the young man at the time, but footpads of the Howard-Sullivan type. No reasonable clue has yet been obtained. The woods are being scoured, and indignation runs so high that if the wretches could be caught they would be made short work of. No more infamous and cold-blooded attempt at murder has ever before been committed in the territory. It is likely, however, that the felons have betaken themselves to some remote and secure lair, where they will lie still until the storm blows over before venturing again into much publicity.

Montana.

R. E. Fisk, the postmaster at Helena, has resigned.

Track is now laid almost to the portals of Mullan tunnel on both sides of the range. It is expected that trains will be running through the tunnel by the middle of next week.

Helena Independent of the 24th: The governor yesterday received a dispatch from Phillips, President Arthur's private secretary, announcing that John S. Tooker, of Lansing, Mich., has been appointed secretary of Montana, in place of I. D. McCutcheon, resigned.

Gold creek is the first station to be honored with a depot on the Northern Pacific between Missoula and Helena—the company having erected one worth $4000 there. They have also put up a handsome section house for the use of the white employes and another for the Chinese laborers.

After a struggle of a week's duration in the republican district convention at Helena, T. C. Powers, of Fort Benton, was chosen delegate at large to the Montana constitutional convention, over William Sanders, of Helena. Colonel Sanders was opposed mainly because he is the attorney of the Northern Pacific railroad.

Idaho.

Wood River Times: A shooting affray was reported at Ketchum on the 20th, between the hours of 6 and 7 P. M. John Pilmer was shot by Horace Lewis, the ball entering the mouth and coming out under the right ear. Dr. Brown was summoned from this city, and dressed the wound. At latest accounts the wounded man was out of danger. Lewis is book-keeper for Pinkham & Leonard, at Ketchum, and also stage agent at that place. The cause of the affray is said to be an old feud between the parties. Lewis is under arrest.

ASHBURNHAM, Mass., Jan. 14, 1880.

I have been very sick over two years. They all gave me up as past cure. I tried the most skillful physicians, but they did not reach the worst part. The lungs and heart would fill up every night and distress me, and my throat was very bad. I told my children I never should die in peace until I had tried Hop Bitters. I have taken two bottles. They have helped me very much indeed. I am now well. There was a lot of sick folks here who have seen how they helped me, and they used them and are cured, and feel as thankful as I do that there is so valuable a medicine made.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

FRIDAY, Oct. 26.

The State of California came in this afternoon with a fair freight. The Queen of the Pacific sails to-night with about 900 tons freight including 270 tons wheat, two hundred sacks fall clip valley wool, 10 tons flour and a large quantity of hides and pelts. She also takes 10 bdls hazel hoops as samples. Oregon usually ships a large quantity of hoops at this time of the year, but a dry summer has hindered their growth and probably hurt the value of the hazel by rendering it brittle. A portion of the ash and maple lumber being shipped goes to the California state penitentiary for manufacturing purposes.

Sixty bales pressed wool were shipped east to-day by rail, being the first shipment in that way. This is to be quickly followed by other and larger shipments. A number of cars for Montana and the east were being loaded to-day from Ainsworth wharf. The car of beer, mentioned a few days since, came from St. Paul in nine days and was intended to be landed at San Francisco in eleven days, but it will require twelve. The shipment goes to a firm which has for years been unfriendly to overland lines coming into San Francisco, and has patronized them as little as possible. While the Northern may not get any very large quantity of such freight, yet there is a fair prospect of a continued movement.

Latest overland receipts include 30 cs 33 bbls 37 sks bacon, 25 cs 2 hf lard, 10 cs lye, 6 cs lem sugar, 2 cs extract, 6 cs bak powder, 36 cs pickles, 10 hf 75 cs syrup, 10 cs pressed fruit, 15 cs canned vegetables, 1 cs cigars, 100 pkgs tobacco, 80 bxs 320 kgs nails.

Work on the dry dock is progressing as rapidly as the weather will permit, and it is fully expected that November will witness its completion.

FREIGHTS—A quiet market with no new business is reported. The Beemah arrived at Wilmington Wednesday and comes to this port with a 65s charter, November canceling. She has 600 tons coal to discharge at Wilmington before coming here. There is a wooden vessel headed this way with October canceling that will almost certainly lose it. The rate paid the Clan Ferguson is generally credited to be 66s 3d, U. K., and this is probably the figure.

WHEAT—It is reported that Salem mills are bidding up on wheat, and that 85 cents is being paid there in instances. Receipts at this point from the eastern section were quite large yesterday. The cargo sale referred to yesterday was reported on strength of flying report which said that a small wooden cargo, recently loaded, was sold at 43s6d. The transaction would not represent to-day's market. There is nothing in to-day's English market of new importance, and ours is quiet but firm at last quoted rates.

MEATS—Increased eastern receipts are noted to-day. Values are steady.

OATS—The market seems to be in an irregular condition, some holders saying they cannot get the prices reported by others. A lull in the demand is noted to-day; 962 ctls were received from Puget sound and were erroneously billed as wheat.

BUTTER—Market not so firm and last quotations are being shaded.

THE EAST SIDE.

ANOTHER MUNICIPAL HITCH.

Probably through the precipitous adjournment of the common council at its last regular meeting, the annual election of officers did not take place at that time, as it should have done, in order that the newly elected officers might commence their terms on the first day of November, as provided by the amended charter. According to this provision, the appointive officers, city attorney, street commissioner and city surveyor, must be chosen previous to the first day of November, in order for them to commence their terms of office in the year in which appointed, as if appointed after the first day of November, they would have to wait till the first day of November in the following year before being entitled to their respective offices and the old officers would consequently hold over for another year. Section 7 of article 3 of the amended charter will explain the matter:

"The terms of office of the mayor and councilmen shall commence on the tenth day from the date of election. The terms of all other officers, elective or appointive, under this act, shall commence on the first day of November next after election or appointment."

This amendment is one of the many botches made in the last attempt to improve the city charter, as will be seen by comparing it with the old provision relating to the matter, which provides that the appointive officers shall commence their terms of office on the first day of November, "in the year in which such persons shall be chosen."

In view of the above facts, Mayor Myers has ordered a special meeting of the council called for next Monday evening, and it is important that a quorum be present at that time for the purpose of choosing officers for the ensuing term, as such action could not be legally taken at the next regular meeting, on account of its occurring after the first day of November.

ON THE WAR PATH.

Mrs. Norah Carroll, who has already attained some notoriety by such ill treatment of an adopted daughter as to cause the latter to leave her surreptitiously, distinguished herself again Thursday at the expense of her former charge. Since escaping from the thraldom of Mrs. Carroll, the girl, who is about 18 years of age, has been stopping with Mrs. Tarbox at her residence on Eleventh street, between K and L, East Portland, and on the day stated Mrs. Carroll, full of blue ruin and in high dudgeon, proceeded to that place and endeavored to take it by storm and recover possession of the girl. In this endeavor, however, she signally failed, but not without administering a severe chastisement to the girl, and depriving her of her best articles of clothing, as the penalty of her determined refusal to surrender. In the evening she again visited the place, this time in a hack, but the girl having sought shelter elsewhere, she was again unsuccessful in her designs. As the girl refuses to make complaint against this fury, she is allowed to escape punishment and remain at liberty to continue her lawlessness when feeling so disposed.

Mrs. Carroll was formerly a matron at the insane asylum, and for many years lived with her husband, Peter Carroll, on Twelfth and H streets in this city, where also the victim under notice was taken into the family. It would appear that her experience at the asylum had an influence for evil upon her mind, as, since leaving that institution, both her husband and the girl have been compelled to leave her society on account of her unconjugal and uncongenial conduct. She is a fit subject for the jail or the asylum, and for the sake of society it is hoped she will soon attain one or the other.

INSTALLATION OF PRESBYTERIAN PASTOR.

The installation of the pastor-elect of the First Presbyterian church of East Portland (Rev. D. O. Ghormley) will occur at that church, corner of Sixth and J streets, to-morrow (Sunday) at 3 P. M. Rev. F. P. Berry of Salem will preside and deliver the charge to the people. Rev. E. T. Lee of Calvary Presbyterian church, Portland, will preach the sermon and Rev. A. L. Lindsley of Portland will deliver the charge to the pastor. An invitation is extended all to be present.

NOTES.

Aunty Frush has gone to Seattle to spend a two-weeks' vacation among friends.

The proposed addition to the First Baptist church will be thirty feet square and will include a library, parlor, kitchen and store room.

The wife of F. L. Bates, after an illness of four weeks, died Thursday evening at her residence, corner of Eleventh and W. streets, Stephens' addition.

Postal Agent Simpson gave notice yesterday that the time for the issuance of postal money orders at the East Portland postoffice would hereafter be from 8 A. M. till 4 P. M.

Messrs. Zellar, Stokes & Co. have finished their contract on the Albina school house, and the directors will meet at an early day to consider the acceptance of the same.

A child of an emigrant family recently arrived here died yesterday, and the family being in straitened circumstances, the Marshal took the case in hand and collected sufficient means to secure a respectable funeral.

Douglas Keenan, son of S. M. Keenan, of the Home hotel, and J. T. Lucas, the well-known restaurant-keeper, formerly of this city, have returned from eastern Oregon, where for some time past they have been engaged on work connected with the construction of telegraph on the Baker City branch of the N. P. R. R.

W. N. Collister and Miss Lora Taylor were quietly married in the parlor of the Home hotel, Thursday evening, by Rev. S. P. Wilson, of the M. E. church. The groom is a fireman on the O. & C. road, and the bride arrived here but a few days since from Ohio in pursuance of the engagement, which was so happily consummated Thursday evening.

WOLFE'S

Schiedam Aromatic Schnapps.

As a general beverage, necessary corrective of water rendered impure by vegetable decomposition or other causes, as limestone, sulphate of copper, etc., the AROMATIC SCHNAPPS is superior to every other alcoholic preparation. A public trial of over thirty years, duration, in every section of our country of UDOLPHO WOLFE'S SCHNAPPS, its unsolicited indorsement by the medical faculty, and a sale unequaled by any other alcoholic distillation, have insured for it the reputation for salubrity claimed for it. For sale by all druggists and grocers.

THREE WARNINGS.

A SICK STOMACH—AN ACHING HEAD—AND CONSIDERABLE GENERAL DEBILITY, ARE THREE WARNINGS WHICH IT IS MADNESS TO DISREGARD. DANGEROUS DISEASES MAY BE EXPECTED TO FOLLOW THEM, IF NOT ARRESTED WITHOUT DELAY. TONE THE RELAXED STOMACH, CALM THE EXCITED BRAIN, INVIGORATE THE NERVOUS SYSTEM, AND REGULATE THE BOWELS, WITH TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT, IF YOU WISH TO ESCAPE THE EVILS WHICH THE PREMONITORY SYMPTOMS INDICATE. HOW MANY CONSUMING FEVERS, VIOLENT BILIOUS ATTACKS, NERVOUS PAROXYSMS, AND OTHER TERRIBLE AILMENTS MIGHT BE PREVENTED IF THIS AGREEABLE AND INCOMPARABLE SALINE TONIC AND ALTERATIVE WERE ALWAYS TAKEN IN TIME! SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

CURED.

"One year ago I was induced to try AYER'S PILLS as a remedy for Indigestion, Constipation, and Headache, from which I had long been a great sufferer. Commencing with a dose of five Pills, I found their action easy, and obtained prompt relief. In continuing their use, a single Pill taken after dinner, daily, has been all the medicine I have required. AYER'S PILLS have kept my system regular and my head clear, and benefited me more than all the medicines ever before tried. Every person similarly afflicted should know their value. 152 State St., Chicago, June 6, 1882.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN

IS THE MOST SUCCESSFUL PHYSICIAN ON the Pacific coast in the treatment of all Chronic and Difficult Diseases of the Sexual Organs.

He will guarantee to cure any form of disease of the generative organs or private disease, if the patient follows his advice and treatment.

He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the FOLLIES OF YOUTH, such as Spermatorrhea, or Seminal Weakness, or Loss of Perfect Vitality. Nearly two-thirds of all the chronic diseases spring either directly or indirectly from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by a majority of the Medical Profession.

Persons afflicted by any form of sexual disease or weakness often delay in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit those diseases to exist until their constitution becomes corrupted, their organization broken down, and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence. Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances. Lost manhood perfectly restored.

Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint and all diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he can cure without fail, if they are curable, and if not, he will tell you so.

Consultation Free, and a list of printed questions sent to those living at a distance who cannot consult him personally. Enclose postage stamp for list.

Office—Nos. 132 and 134 Third street, corner of Alder, opposite Masonic Hall.

TUTT'S PILLS

TORPID BOWELS, DISORDERED LIVER, and MALARIA.

From these sources arise three-fourths of the diseases of the human race. These symptoms indicate their existence: Loss of Appetite, Bowels costive, Sick Headache, fullness after eating, aversion to exertion of body or mind, Eructation of food, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, A feeling of having neglected some duty, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, highly colored Urine, CONSTIPATION, and demand the use of a remedy that acts directly on the Liver. As a Liver medicine TUTT'S PILLS have no equal. Their action on the Kidneys and Skin is also prompt; removing all impurities through these three "scavengers of the system," producing appetite, sound digestion, regular stools, a clear skin and a vigorous body. TUTT'S PILLS cause no nausea or griping nor interfere with daily work and are a perfect

ANTIDOTE TO MALARIA.

FOR THE BLOOD.

Swift's Specific has been the means of bringing health and happiness to thousands who were pronounced incurable of Blood and Skin Diseases.

HEAR THE WITNESSES!

Saved from a Horrible Death.

Up to May last I had spent at least five hundred dollars for treatment by many of the best medical men, without any benefit. I suffered excruciatingly, and all my best friends advised me that the icy hand of death was fast approaching. I caught at S. S. S. like a drowning man at a straw. After taking two bottles I could feel a change for the better. The sores began to discharge freely and the Rheumatism to abate. When I had taken six bottles every sore had healed and my skin began to assume a natural appearance. I persisted until I had taken twelve bottles, large size, and THERE IS NOT A SYMPTOM OF THE DISEASE REMAINING, and I feel as well as I ever did. I have gained twenty-one pounds in flesh, and my friends wonder at my improved condition. I have recommended it to many, and in every instance with complete success. I believe that S. S. S. has saved me from a horrible Death. C. H. SMILEY, Quincy, Ill.

I am sure that Swift's Specific saved my life. I was terribly poisoned with Malaria, and was given up to die. Swift's Specific relieved me promptly and entirely. I think it is the greatest remedy of the age.

DID SHE DIE?

"No!

"She lingered and suffered along, pining away all the time for years."

"The doctors doing her no good;"

"And at last was cured by this Hop Bitters the papers say so much about."

"Indeed! Indeed!"

How thankful we should be for that medicine."

A DAUGHTER'S MISERY.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery,

"From a complication of kidney, liver, rheumatic trouble and nervous debility,

"Under the care of the best physicians,

"Who gave her disease various names,

"But no relief,

"And now she is restored to us in good health by as simple a remedy as Hop Bitters, that we had shunned for years before using it."—THE PARENTS.

FATHER IS GETTING WELL.

My daughters say—

"How much better father is since he used Hop Bitters."

"He is getting well after his long suffering from a disease declared incurable."

"And we are so glad that he used your Bitters."
